PINCHOT SPENT
$187,267 FUND
IN SENATE RACE

Total of Expenditures of Pennsylvania Governor Approaches Amount in Newberry Contest.

AMAZING FIGURE
SEEN FOR TOTAL

With Vare and Pepper
Expenses Added to Total Amazing Expenditures Are Expected.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
Washington, June 9.—Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, and his campaign manager admitted to the senate campaign investigating committee Wednesday expenditures in their recent unsuccessful senatorial race equal to those for which Newberry was condemned by the senate.

They raised a campaign fund of at least $187,267.31, most of which was contributed by Pinchot and his relatives.

This fund was contributed as follows: Governor Pinchot, $43,767.31;
Mrs. Pinchot, his wife, $40,000; Amos Pinchot, his brother, $10,000; Mrs.
Charles B. Wood, his aunt, $50,000;
George W. Woodruff, a college classmate and appointed by Pinchot as attorney general of Pennsylvania, $13,500; raised by county committees not reported, but estimated by Pinchot's campaign manager, at $30,000; total, $187,267.31.

Considering that Pinchot ran third with an organization notoriously inferior to those of his two opponents, Vare and Pepper, the total cost of the Pennsylvania race for the senatorial nomination probably will reach an amazing figure.

When Senator Newberry was shown to have spent $195,000 to be elected senator in Michigan, the senate adopted a resolution declaring: "The expenditure of such excessive sums in behalf of a candidate, either with or without his knowledge and consent, being contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the honor and dignity of the senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of a free government, such excessive expenditures are hereby severely condemned and disapproved."

No Law Violated.

No law is violated in these expenditures. The supreme court held in the Newberry case that congress cannot regulate state primaries. Pennsylvania has chosen to impose no limit save heaven above.

But if Vare's expenditures prove larger, as is expected, the senate may attempt to censure him on the ground that such liberal use of money is to be condemned. Some senators resent that rich men should spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for a job that pays $10,000 a year—$60,000 for the full term. They concede that the honor of sitting in the senate is worth something even though the modern tendency is to put a senate seat on the auction block to be carried off by the highest bidder.

Primary Blamed.

One reason for the high cost of being elected in recent years is the direct primary which requires great organizations and hundreds of workers who demand cash rather than glory.
Perhaps it is inevitable that great sums must be spent. Some who feel this is necessary believe the government, not private individuals who might expect something in return, should foot the bills. Perhaps that reform will be accelerated by the Pen-sylvania case but it is still a long way off.

Pinchot made his disclosures frankly and sought to conceal nothing. He probably is as devoted a servant as there is in public life and bears no comparison with the ideals of Vare or even of the agile Pepper. Despite his huge expenditure, he had a relatively scanty organization.

He was not able to afford watchers at many polling places. To match

EQUALIZATION FEE
CAUSE OF BATTLE

Southerners Insist on De-

To Weaken Farm Stand Of White House.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and
The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, June 9.—Developments today made the passage of adequate farm relief legislation at this session of congress a remote possibility.

The corn belt senators and the cotton states senators were unable to reach an agreement on a surplus control measure.

The administration gave no indication of a willingness to make any concessions to the western demands for price stabilization legislation.

Corn Belt Needs Help.

If the corn belt and the administration could get together a bill could be passed. If the corn belt and the cotton states could agree on a bill, the legislation could be put through congress despite administration opposition, although President Coolidge might veto it. But unless the corn belt can get help of either the administration or the south its hope of getting the sort of farm relief legislation it is demanding will go glimmering.

A canvass of sentiment in the senate today disclosed 44 prospective votes for the pending bill to raise the price of farm products through control of the surplus and assessment of the cost of the marketing operations on production in the form of an equalization fee. This support, which is divided about equally between republicans and democrats, is five short of a majority of the senate.

Senator Watson, republican, of Indiana, had a talk with Senator Simmons, democrat, of North Carolina, and other southern senators in an effort to find a basis for compromise.
The southerners stated that they could not support the measure if the equalization fee is to be made applicable to cotton at once. Their position is that while the use of an equalization fund to withhold cotton surplus from the market and procure a more orderly marketing undoubtedly would stabilize the price on a higher level the cotton planters, not understanding the proposition, would rise in rebellion against payment of the fee.

Want Fee Deferred.

The southerners indicated that they would support the bill if the application of the equalization fee bill were deferred two years and made optional then with the planters and if $75,000,000 of the proposed $150,000,000 revolving fund were allocated to the cotton marketing operations.
Then if the cotton planters eventually raised an equalization fund they would repay to the government any part of the $75,000,000 lost in surplus control operations.

Senator Watson declared acceptance of such terms, as the price of southern support, impossible. He declined to agree to an exemption of cotton from the equalization fee provision for two years on the ground that it would be a discrimination against corn, wheat, and other products to which the provision would be applicable at once. He called the $75,000,000 proposal a subsidy and hence uneconomic and hazardous the opinion

Well-Known Young Busi-

Cleaning Small Rifle, Evidence Shows.

FOUND BY BROTHER
ALONE IN BEDROOM

Youth Died in Ambulance
Before Reaching Hospital—Had Been on Hunting Trip.

Death from a bullet wound in the heart as the result of an accidental discharge of a .22 caliber rifle, was the verdict of a coroner's jury that Wednesday evening inquired into the death of Eric Noel Turman, 22, who was fatally wounded in the bedroom of the home on Andrews drive early in the afternoon.

Turman, the son of Mrs. Helen Reid Turman and the late well-known realtor, S. B. Turman, was found lying on the bed in the room he occupied jointly with his 18-year-old brother, John Reid Turman, with a bullet wound in the heart. He then was unable to speak, his brother testified before the coroner's jury.

"I heard a noise, a crack like a stick breaking, but thought nothing particularly of it," the brother testified. "About 10 seconds later I heard groans and went into the bedroom, and saw Eric Noel lying on his back,
his position indicating that he had been sitting on the side of the bed.
An oil can and a knife blade were on the table close by the bed. The rifle had fallen to the floor. I suppose that he was trying to extricate the shell from the rifle when it was accidentally discharged."

Mrs. Turman at Home.

Mrs. Turman told the jury that she was at home at the time her son was fatally wounded.

"I was feeling badly and did not return to my office," she stated. "I was lying on my bed in an upstairs room, when I heard a commotion in the adjoining room. I went to investigate and found that Eric Noel and John Reid had frightened their sister with a large bullfrog they had caught.
They started to kill the frog, but later decided to take it to the pond back of the house where they caught it."

"A few minutes after that I decided to use the phone and call the office regarding an engagement I had this afternoon, when John Reid came rushing toward the phone and said, 'Let me use the phone, quick.' I told him
I was going to use it first, and he said,
'No! A bad accident has happened and some one is seriously hurt.' I told him I would call for the ambulance and he forced his way by me and phoned for an ambulance, telling me that Eric Noel had been hurt. He wouldn't let me go to the room where Eric Noel was and the butler also begged me not to. I did go in when the ambulance arrived and accompanied my boy in the ambulance. We had a doctor examine him before we reached the hospital, and he said, 'It's all over; the bullet penetrated the heart, and he is dead.'"

Brother Recalled.

Mrs. Turman was the first witness examined by Coroner Paul Done-hue at the inquest held over the body in the chapel of a local undertaker.
John Turman was recalled to the stand for further questioning by the jury after they had examined the body of his brother.

Was there any one in the room with your brother at the time the shot was fired? one of the jurors asked him. When John Reid replied that there was no one in the room, he was asked if any one could have been there and he (John Reid) not known of their presence, and if they

"Keep away from drink," he admon-

"Saying this to you at this time is almost an insult, especially in view of the prohibition laws in this country.
But there never was a time when boys and girls were exposed to such dan-

Modern girls, he declared, drank,

they had been "conquered by the

"They follow the custom," he said.

CONTEST SEEN
BY MRS. OWEN
IF SEARS WINS

Congressman, Seeking Reelection, Is Now Leading Bryan's Daughter by Majority of 408.

ALLEGATIONS MADE OF IRREGULARITIES

Miami, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Charges of irregularities in the state democratic primary were made here tonight by James M. Carson, member of the campaign committee for Mrs.
Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, a candidate for congress from the fourth Florida district.

Mr. Carson declared that a contest would be made of the returns if they did not show Mrs. Owen's nomination.
Late returns, unofficial, showed Mrs.
Owen to be trailing Congressman W.
J. Sears, her opponent, by 608 votes.

"Has Safe Lead."

"On the basis of returns now received she has a safe lead," said Mr. Carson in a statement, "notwithstanding certain precincts in several counties, particularly in Monroe, where we are advised that there has been stealing in the count."

"The danger is that in Monroe county, the inspectors are waiting to see how big a majority Sears must overcome before making their final returns. Certainly Congressman Sears ought not to want the office if it comes to him tainted with fraud."

"Mrs. Owen is nominated for congress and our hope is that it will not be necessary to demand a recount in the courts in order to prove the nomination."

Feature of Primary.

The race between Mrs. Owen, offering for public office for the first time, and Congressman Sears, was the feature of a political contest which also offered Senator Duncan U. Fletcher as a candidate to succeed himself as the democratic standard bearer.

Counting Seats Tense.

Counting seats tonight issued a statement thanking the voters for their support of him, after a day of suspense for both candidates. Returns from the fourth district tonight swung first to Mrs. Owen and then to Sears with the lead of one over the other never more than a few hundred.

The vote, with several precincts missing, was: Fletcher, 37,892; Carter, 21,420; Van Valzah, 2,164.

Yon Is Winning.

Incomplete returns from the third congressional district indicated the defeat of Congressman J. H. Smithwick, of Pensacola, by Thomas A. Yon.
Nine counties of the 15 in the district, with only 32 precincts missing, gave Yon 5,556; Smithwick 4,168.

The race for state railroad commissioner from group 1 narrowed down to a tight contest between R. Hudson Burr, with 21,154, and R. L. Eaton, with 20,973. Ebenezer J. Harris polled 1,034 for this place in the contest.

In group 2, Eugene Mathews, of Starks, had 25,573 to 14,700 for W. J.
Redding, of Leesburg.

RECOUNT PROBABLE
IN PALM BEACH COUNTY.

West Palm Beach, Fla., June 9.— (AP)—Possibility of a recount of election returns from Palm Beach county, involving a delay of many days, in the announcement of the official tabulation loomed tonight, when it was reported that canvassers had been made erroneously.

Judge R. P. Robbins, head of the canvassing board, stated tonight the officials had been misled by a letter which had been issued, in which event it would be necessary to summon all reporting officials for a recount of the ballots. It is expected that the board will begin its task tomorrow.

Glaring discrimination against Atlanta automobile insurance rates apparently was disclosed Wednesday in letters received by The Constitution from Ernest L. Rhodes, prominent Atlanta business man, who discovered the inequalities and who wants to know what is the matter with the Atlanta insurance rate. Mr. Rhodes purchased two automobiles, exactly alike and of the same make, model and finish. He had one of the cars delivered to him in Atlanta and the other delivered to his daughter in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The charge for identically the same insurance in Atlanta was more than 50 per cent greater than the charge in Colorado Springs.

The Atlanta man asked for identical insurance for the two cars.
The Atlanta insurance on the car for $1,400 and the Colorado premium was $290.40; the Colorado premium was $17.30. The Atlanta pre-

An open clash between Mrs. J. E.
Andrews, president of the Atlanta
Woman's Civic Council, and Captain Grover C. Fair, whose election as assistant chief of police Mrs. Andrews is said in some quarters to have blocked, developed Wednesday when Fair charged the woman reform leader was interfering with policemen in pursuit of their duty.

The situation grew out of charges preferred by Mrs. Andrews against two patrolmen of Fair's watch. The officers were Joe Allen and C. E. Hale.
Mrs. Andrews informed Police Chief Beavers that Wednesday morning she watched the two enter an alleged negro bootlegging dive on West Mitchell street behind the terminal station, and that she followed them and "ran them away."

She charged that the two officers visit the place regularly and that she has received numerous complaints about the place.

Chief Beavers summoned Captain Fair and ordered him to bring Patrolmen Allen and Hale before him. Examination of the two officers failed to substantiate Mrs. Andrews' charge that the men were drinking, and they were returned to duty.

Charge Interference.

"Mrs. Andrews is interfering with police officers in pursuit of their duty," Captain Fair told Chief Beavers, stating that the two men in question were in the West Mitchell street place to investigate reports of an impending fight between two negro women. "This practice must stop. I am paid a salary by the city of Atlanta to keep my men in order, and I do not seek Mrs. Andrews' help in doing it. She has said a lot about evil, but nothing about how to cure them."

"The West Mitchell street place is a negro settlement and is no place for a white woman to frequent in the role of a spy."

Mrs. Andrews' View.

Mrs. Andrews, on the other hand, said that she was working to clean up Atlanta and that she cared naught for appearances so long as the end was accomplished.

"I am working for a clean-up of Atlanta," she declared, "and I'm going to see it through regardless of the hardships and embarrassments I may be made personally to suffer.
There are hundreds of good women in the city who feel as I do about it, and they will support me in my efforts."

Defense of Millionaires CLAIMS THEY WORK 12 HOURS PER DAY
Made by Joseph Leiter

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and
The Chicago Tribune.)
Chicago, Ill., June 9.—A brief in defense of the American millionaire was read today by Joseph Leiter, testifying before Superior Judge Denis H.
Sullivan. His evidence was offered in defense of charges brought against him
by his sister, the Countess of Suffolk, who seeks his removal as trustee of the $30,000,000 Levi Z. Leiter estate.

Not the narrow-minded money-machine that he has sometimes been described, but a man of widest culture and of vast knowledge, the present-day capitalist must be of necessity, Leiter testified.

To back his assertion that he did not mismanage the estate either wilfully or carelessly, Leiter gave a hint of the many varied pursuits that must be followed in one day by the custodian of millions. The successful millionaire can't be a Babbitt, his testimony indicated. Because his wealth reaches into so many fields, he must be an expert among experts, he able to talk as freely with college professors
as with coal miners.

The daily program of the man of wealth, the witness said, calls upon him to give decisions in matters involving an expert knowledge of ranching, farming, irrigation projects, coal mining, railroading, store-keeping, banking, employment of labor, architecture, department store management, real estate and finance.

He must daily interview and speak on an equal plane with lawyers, bankers, labor leaders, farmers, lumbermen, builders, real estate dealers and brokers.

Twelve hours constitutes his usual business day, Leiter declared. Occasionally, his family gets a glimpse of him, or he squeezes out an hour or two for relaxation and amusement.

Much of today was spent by Leiter in telling of his management of the Chicago properties of the estate. Previously, he had narrated his difficulties on the ranches in Wyoming and the coal mines in Franklin county, Illinois. He will probably finish his testimony under direct examination tomorrow and cross-examination will be taken up by the countess' lawyers.

TILSON'S DEFEAT

GEORGIA SENATORS
ON COUNCIL SEAT

Washington, June 9.—(Special.)—
After hesitating for more than a week,
President Coolidge sent to the senate today the nomination of W. J. Tilson, Atlanta republican lawyer, as judge of the new middle district in Georgia, acting over the protests of the two Georgia senators, who met the appointment with announcements that they would fight confirmation vigorously and predicted its defeat.

"We have promise of enough votes to defeat Tilson's confirmation," Senator Harris said immediately after the nomination came from the white house.

Confirmation Assured.

President Coolidge also sent up the nomination of Bascom S. Deaver, Macon attorney, as district attorney of the new district, and Samuel Purvis, of Ocala, to be United States marshal.
These appointments are assured of confirmation, as no fight will be made on them. Deaver is now assistant district attorney of the southern district.

All interest centers around the fight over the Tilson nomination. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic floor leader, has expressed confidence that it can be beaten. The fight against confirmation will have the

Boston, June 9.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of medical science the sound of heart beats has been recorded on phonograph records and reproduced for a class of physicians.
Hundreds of doctors from all parts of the United States and from Canada, gathered at the Massachusetts general hospital today, listened simultaneously through individual stethoscopes to heart beats engraved on phonograph records. The sounds were recorded and reproduced in such minute detail that they served for studies in diagnosis.

The invention, designed for analysis and study of both cardiac and respiratory disorders, is expected to be of far-reaching significance to both the medical profession and to the public.

The recording and reproducing de-

18 years of study and experimenta-

PLAN TO RESULT IN MONEY SAVING, SAYS PRESIDENT

Education Board Adopts Sutton Plan for Year-Round School Session
Beginning 1927.

DIVIDE SCHOOL YEAR
IN FOUR QUARTERS

Eubanks Says Plan Allows Vacation in Winter
If Preferred and Has Other Advantages.

First steps toward establishment of year-round school sessions for Atlanta were taken Wednesday, when the Atlanta board of education adopted a recommendation of Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, providing for a series of summer schools in Atlanta in the summer of 1927, and instructing school officials to at once begin preparation for the sessions.

This action was taken at the adjourned meeting of the board which was held at the city council chamber, at which other important measures were considered.

Although the summer school idea is in an embryonic form at the present time and school heads will engage themselves with working out details between now and next summer, summer school attendance for the next few years at least would be optional with students, but would permit those people who wish to finish school as early as possible to push their education.

The school year would be divided into quarters, but students would advance a grade in nine months, as they do at present, according to tentative plans.

Mr. Sutton pointed out that it is the plan of school heads to establish the schools in order that all students wishing to go to summer school may do so provided their teachers recommend their attendance in the summer term. The school year will be divided also into four quarters, according to the plan, and students will be advanced each quarter instead of twice a year as they are now.

Practically the same plan was suggested about three years ago by Dr.
R. M. Eubanks, who at that time was a member of the board, but who as its president Wednesday was a staunch supporter of the proposal.

"I have always contended that students are restricted in their educational advantages by the present plan because they are forced to take their vacation periods in the summer time," Dr. Eubanks said. "Under the proposal, a child could travel in the winter weather and study during the summer months if the parents of the child preferred."

"Then, too, schools can be operated in the summer time at an almost negligible cost, for under provisions of the election proposal all teachers are subject to call to teach once every five years."

Wood Launches Race For Governor in Speech To Jasper County Voters

Outlines His Position and Declares He Is in the Race to the Finish.

Monticello, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) Branding as an attempt to bolster up the political fortunes of a man who has not yet announced for the governor's race a report that he intends to withdraw as soon as this unnamed man enters the lists, and declaring that he is in the fight until the last ballot is counted, J. O. Wood, of Atlanta, candidate for the state's chief executive post, tonight addressed a throng of persons in Jasper county courthouse.

Jasper and several adjoining counties turned out in large numbers to hear the first political gun of the present campaign fired in this section of the state.

The nucleus for the organization of a Wood club already has been formed here and plans for an aggressive campaign in behalf of Wood were launched here tonight by a committee of citizens.

Although the speaker admitted he is a klanman, he denied that he is a klan candidate, declaring that he seeks the votes of all progressive and patriotic Georgians in order that he may be a true representative of all citizens.

"I am in the race for governor until the last ballot is counted notwithstanding a persistent rumor in certain circles to the effect that I am marking time until certain political lines are formed and then will come down," Mr. Wood said. "These rumors are circulated by designing political friends of a certain gentleman who has not yet announced but whose announcement is expected at any time and are made in an attempt to bolster this person's political fortunes at my expense. I have had overtures made to me and to my friends by this group but I say to you that I have nothing in common with these ring politicians who would barter this high office as so much personal property.

"It has been charged since I announced that my services in the general assembly for the past four years have been those of an average legislator. I plead guilty to this indictment. I am proud that even my enemies will concede that I am an average person. It is an average person who comes before you now asking your support. If I am elected I will try to serve you in my capacity of an average citizen. For frankly we have tried the other kind until it has hurt. This government was founded by average persons, its laws were framed and its institutions were ordained by average persons.

"So far, aside from the charge that I am an average citizen, the only other argument advanced against me is that I am a klanman. I admit that I am a klanman, but I deny that I am a klan candidate. A rule of the klan precludes it from endorsing candidates for political office, and no member of the klan can be a candidate for office. I believe in their principles, and believing in them, I endeavor in my humble way to be a good member. Were it otherwise I would resign. I try to avoid being a 'card carrier' in any undertaking. And if I am elected governor I shall try just as earnestly to be a good one.

"There has been an attempt to inject the matter of issuing bonds into this campaign as the paramount issue. In my opinion the question of a bond issue is not one for a candidate for governor to assume. For the reason that apart from its being moot at this time, the whole matter is to be settled by the people in their selection of representatives in the general assembly. The person who comes before you as a candidate for governor and says that if he is elected, there shall be no bond issue, is promising to violate his oath of office. The constitution of the state which says plainly that the legislative, judicial and executive branches of the government shall forever remain separate, and that neither shall encroach upon the other. The same is true of the person who tells you that if elected he will see that the state shall have no bonds. This is purely a legislative matter.

"I am not trying to dodge the issue by this statement. My record in the house is clear on bonds. Unlike other gentlemen crying in the wilderness, I had an opportunity to express myself on the bond question and did so. I voted against submitting the bond issue to the people for the reason that the bill proposed sought to tie up the common schools with universities and colleges, leaving the people no choice in the matter but to either vote them all or refuse them all. Because of my voting in the house for the public, or common school, I was appointed on the subcommittee of the committee on amendments to the constitution which was appointed for the purpose of drawing a bill that would harmonize the views of all factions. Those of us championing the public schools proposed that the bonds should be drawn, one submitting bonds for higher education and another submitting bonds for common schools. This was opposed by those who advocate on the ground that if it was done the bonds for the common schools would carry and the bonds for the universities and colleges fail. Failing to carry our point and not wishing to be a party to a measure we could not later conscientiously support on the floor of the house, we refused to attend any further meetings of the subcommittee and concerned ourselves only with making preparations to fight the whole matter on the floor.

"As to road bonds, I am opposed to the principle of any legislation that is sought on ill-considered grounds. It was proposed by the road bond advocates to borrow 70 millions of dollars pay back in the neighborhood of 120 million principal, interest and brokerage fees, without adding one penny to the tax burden of the people. I may be dense, remember I am just an average person, but I do comprehend the logic that is set forth in a declaration that the state can raise money without taxing the people when it is only by taxation that funds can be raised. We were told by proponents that this could be done but no one showed us where the money was to come from.

"If elected governor I shall neither encourage nor discourage the legislative body in its handling of the problem rightly belonging to it. I shall as behooves the chief executive, lay before that body any matter which I think is deserving of its consideration.

"Among which will be a suggestion for a change in the highway board. I believe that the interest of all the people would be better served if the number comprising the board was enlarged to 12, one from each congressional district, they to elect a commissioner of roads who shall not be a member of the board. However, when I have suggested this, and other matters I deem of sufficient importance to merit the attention of the members of the general assembly, I shall not attempt to browbeat them into enacting it in haste. For this reason I am unwilling to assume the burden of issues which rightfully belong in the campaigns of the candidates for the general assembly.

"Year after year the people have staggered under the burden of sustaining unnecessary office-holders. The excuses offered by those making the promises have invariably been, 'My hands are tied.' I may not find, without the aid of legislation, any way to remove these parasites, but I can also cry that my hands are tied when it comes to signing vouchers for their pay. For I think I shall have the right to inquire as to what service has been rendered the state before I hand out its money.

"In every important line of endeavor ample provision is made for the many to absorb the losses of the few except in the case of the farmer. He is promised much, but gives much, little. He has been literally loved to death by his friends. Perhaps those who have sought his vote were so much above the average that they did not understand his needs and thought his cries for help were peans of joy. However, I am only an average person, and consequently think in terms of the average person, and though perhaps handicapped by mediocrity, I shall bend my every endeavor to affording him relief. There should be some provision made for the farmer whose crop fails through no fault of his own. Just what is best or would afford the necessary relief I do not profess to know, but I do know that a state with the wealth and industries of Georgia can arrive at some solution that will make the business of farming less hazardous. I know that measures can be taken to relieve him of burdensome taxation when he finds himself in the plight that the farmers in our drought-stricken area find themselves last year. In any case I shall take the matter up with other farmers himself and not with those who profess to love him but do nothing to alleviate his suffering in times of stress."

Elks Expect 40,000 Kiddies As Guests at Lakewood Today

With six new rides and shows and with all the old favorite midway delights polished up in best holiday bib and tucker, Lakewood park will be thrown open today as a free joyland for children of Atlanta and surrounding country without cost, charge or obligation as the honored guests of the Southeastern Fair association and the Atlanta lodge of Elks.

The free children's frolic and picnic will be staged as Elks' "Big Brother's day," with members of the lodge and Elks club, woman's auxiliary, as hosts and hostesses under direction of the "Big Brother" committee of the order. Preparations are complete to entertain a throng of 40,000 children, with their parents. Festivities will begin with the opening of the gates of the park promptly at 9 o'clock this morning. The only credentials necessary for admission to the fun are that the applicant appear to be between the ages of 6 and 15 years. Older people will be admitted to the park and to a variety of special attractions planned for the day, including hand concerts, patriotic exercises and free vaudeville and dancing beginning at 8 o'clock at night, but only youngsters will have free admission to the midway amusements. Committees of the lodge will be ready at the gates to provide each child with free tickets to all amusements of the park. Other committees will be stationed throughout the grounds to guard the safety, welfare and comfort not only of the children, but of their mothers and sisters and cousins and aunts who will come to make merry with them.

Each of the rides and shows will be presided over by a chaperon from the Elks club and a host from the Elks lodge or several chaperons and hosts if necessary. To insure orderly supervision and little boys and little girls will be sure of their fair turn in line without molestation from the bigger boys and girls. At 1 o'clock picnic dinners will be spread by families and neighborhood groups on the park grounds. At 5 o'clock the crowd will be led into the grandstand to participate in the flag day ceremonies. The ceremonies will be the official flag day observance of the Elks' lodge, the date having been moved forward to June 10, instead of June 14, by official dispensation of the grand lodge of Elks.

Ten thousand American flags as large as a child can carry easily, will be distributed among the children as they pass into the grandstand for the final entertainment. At sundown the patriotic spectacle is expected to be the most inspiring ever staged by the Elks' lodge.

BIG PUBLISHING HOUSE TO OPEN ATLANTA BRANCH

Because of the bright prospects for progress and expansion in the southeastern states in the next few years the McMillan company, of New York, one of the largest book publishing houses in the world, will open a branch house in Atlanta, it was announced Wednesday by G. P. ## Modern Girls Lack Modesty, Mrs. Felton To Celebrate 91st Birth Anniversary Today in Atlanta Says First Woman Senator

BY CLIFFORD STARK.
Cartersville, Ga., June 9.—The modern girl's lack of modesty and the passing of genuine statesmanship in America are mourned by Mrs. Rebecca Felton, the first woman who ever held a seat in the United States senate, as she prepares to celebrate her ninety-first birthday Thursday.

Still retaining a remarkable interest in affairs of the day, this frail and tottering woman who is nearing the century mark, gave her views on politics of today, women in politics, the present type of politician and the 1926 flapper, in an exclusive interview with the United News, with as much vigor and enthusiasm as a woman half her age.

"Mothers and wives are the hope of the world for clean lives and morals, but they can't hold an even hand with men in dirty politics," said the woman who had the honor of being the first of her sex to sit in the United States senate as an equal with men.

"Women of the south are now clamoring for better government but the men are doing much to delude them. Down in the hearts of these husbands and fathers, they are 'agin women in politics.'"

"It is a conundrum far from being solved as to what the future will bring forth in this line," she said.

Recalls Old Days.
Mrs. Felton recalls with regret the days when "the south sent her big men to congress and to state legislatures," and she mourns the "decadence of genuine statesmanship and patriotism."

"It is preeminently a day of small men, and too often pee wee lawyers, who infect very largely the halls of national and state legislatures."

The quality of American politics, Mrs. Felton thinks, is very poor. "It has been so long commercialized by demagogues that it means a bargain and sale of offices for the great majority," she said. "In the south where I was born and reared, I find a humiliating use of the civil war spirit carried into partisan campaigns by ambitious politicians until it is becoming nauseous to the common sense of our once plain citizens."

"Thrifty politicians ride the same old pension horse and rouse the same old sectional passions and issues. They go into high offices by such legendary means when we know it works injury to every business interest and is decidedly harmful to this union of states, as well as to the peace of society."

The farming classes of the country are led into "personal and pernicious politics by ceaseless promises of policies to help them," Mrs. Felton declared, but these promises too often are forgotten after election.

Turning from politics to modern femininity, Mrs. Felton said: "The modern girl is a new adventure for an old woman within nine years of the century mark."

"I never was acquainted with girls who wore breeches on the streets, who smoked in public, or who drank cocktails at festive gatherings, in my young days," she added.

"Modesty is charm for a girl who will be a coming wife and mother. Nothing can overtop the status of a modest, clean-minded and pure-hearted girl in her home, in public and private; in whatever she undertakes at home or abroad."

"Need I say more on the modern girl?"

Mrs. Felton would give no advice on longevity. She "made no calculations" as to the length of her days, she explained.

She is going to Atlanta Thursday to celebrate her birthday with her niece, Mrs. Nellie Henderson.

The woman who was appointed United States senator in October, 1922, by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick to succeed Thomas E. Watson, leads a simple life in this little village, where she lives with relatives. She has long been active in public affairs in Georgia and was one of the first champions in the south of woman suffrage.

When she took her seat in the senate, she delivered a speech which will long be remembered by the women of the country.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT WOMAN'S CLUB.
Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, noted Georgia woman, the first of her sex to serve as a member of the United States senate, will celebrate her 91st birthday today.

There will be a cake with 91 bright candles at a birthday party at the Woman's club at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Felton, who sang in the first opera ever presented in Atlanta, a composer of music before affair of state absorbed all of her moments, will sing old melodies playing her own accompaniment at the piano.

For several years James Henry Lynch, head of the Georgia Insurance agency, has been the host in Atlanta at Mrs. Felton's birthday parties. He is entertaining her today, assisted by Miss Callie Irwin, his business associate.

Among the prominent guests will be Charlie A. Irwin, of Coopers, father of Miss Irwin; Mr. and Mrs. James B. Nevin, W. A. Wright, Lucian Lamar Knight, Augustus Lukeman, Mrs. Walter A. Sims, Mrs. L. K. Day, Mrs. John P. Frazier, Miss Mary Graham and the Rev. L. F. Church. The musical program will be in charge of Mrs. G. E. Cooper.

Mrs. Felton probably will remain in Atlanta through Friday before returning to her home in Cartersville.

Negro Is Released.
Huntsville, Ala., June 9.—(Special.)—Sam Cannon, negro garage employee who was arrested several days ago on a charge of slaying his wife, has been discharged because of a lack of evidence, after a preliminary hearing before Judge Bassett Young.

MUTINY CONVICTS GIVEN LIFE TERMS

Four convicts of the North Side camp who mutinied in conspiracy will spend their lives in a convict camp to pay for the death of Captain Pat Newsome, convict guard who was killed last March when they made their break for liberty.

R. L. Travis, Raymond Sisson and Roy Wilson, three of the four, were given life sentences Wednesday by Judge G. H. Howard, in Fulton Superior court. David A. Perkins, the fourth escaped convict, was given a life sentence for his part in the mutiny and the subsequent death of Captain Newsome, April 9, when the jury found him guilty of murder and recommended mercy.

Sisson, first of the quartet to go on trial, was sentenced to be electrocuted by Judge W. E. H. Searcy, visiting judge from the Griffin circuit, who heard the case in the absence of Judge Howard.

Howard, after the trial of Perkins, Judge Searcy recommended a new trial and leniency in the case of Sisson.

Accordingly the Fulton county court granted Sisson a new trial and he pleaded guilty to murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment. The trial had been delayed for some time, due to the inability of Roy Wilson to appear in the trial, as he was injured in the fight and flight and was recaptured immediately.

The four boys escaped late one afternoon when they were returning to the camp in a truck after a day's work. Travis, who turned state's witness, testified that the escape had been planned for some time. At a signal, the four, with others, made a break for liberty and succeeded in overpowering two guards on the truck. In the fight for liberty, Captain Newsome was shot; he died two days later.

Wilson, thrown from the truck, had his foot badly mashed when the truck struck him. The other three made good their escape and were recaptured later in the hills near Canton.

Indictments charging murder were filed and the state. The trials Wednesday came as a surprise, as the Travis and Wilson cases were called Tuesday and were postponed because of the illness of their attorneys.

The mutiny of the four convicts was one of the most sensational in the returned against the four men and Sisson was the first to go on trial. He was sentenced to death, principally on the evidence furnished the state by Travis and Perkins, who was the second to be tried and was given life.

When the new trial was granted Sisson, a consent verdict was allowed by the three-judge court. The history of Fulton county. After making good their escape the trio held the automobile of Mrs. James R. Gray near the river, forced the car and her chauffeur, out of the machine. They later abandoned the car.

After being captured, the three were brought back to Fulton tower and have been held since. They were returned to the tower Wednesday and will be held until a camp to begin their sentences. Perkins is now serving his sentence.

BAPTISTS PROBE CASE OF MINISTER JAILED IN WARSAW

(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Warsaw, June 9.—W. O. Lewis, representative of the American Baptist Mission society, is in Warsaw investigating the imprisonment of the Baptist minister, Rev. Anton Czaplik, formerly of Philadelphia.

The Atlanta has been doing missionary work at Lemberg and a couple of weeks ago baptized four Polish converts, including a soldier, in the river there. For this he was arrested and jailed, but was released after 23 hours upon the representations of the American legation.

ATLANTANS USE PLANE TO ENTER CONVENTION BID

Peoria, Ill., June 9.—(P)—Dropping in on the national convention of American Business clubs in an airplane, members of the Atlanta, Ga., delegation today presented a strong bid for the next national gathering. Buffalo, N. Y., and Gulfport, Miss., delegations were their rivals.

The Atlanta delegates, John Wood, T. C. Bazemore, Dr. G. Aven, and Carl Aven, missed their train yesterday at Danville, Ill., and chartered an airplane.

The Gulfport, Miss., delegates brought a piece of their 66-mile beach with them in the form of an oil painting.

WEDNESDAY HOLIDAYS FOR PRODUCE ROW

More than 800 employees of the Atlanta Produce club, which is composed of various agencies on Produce Row, will be given each Wednesday afternoon as a half-day holiday, according to announcement Wednesday by J. L. McCord, prominent produce dealer and president of the club. The half-holiday goes into effect next Wednesday.

RICHMOND RUBBER PLANT IS BURNED

Richmond, Va., June 9.—(P)—The plant of the Virginia-Carolina Rubber company here was destroyed by fire at noon today, the loss being estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000. The plant was working at full speed when, in some unknown manner, a workman's shoe caught fire. He jerked it off and threw it from him. It landed in a basket of inflammable cement, which blazed up and in a few minutes the entire structure was in flames.

JUSTICE H. W. HILL TO SPEAK SUNDAY AT DEKALB CHURCH

Conley, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—Justice H. Warner Hill, justice of the supreme court of Georgia, an enthusiastic church worker, will deliver an address at the "children's day" exercises Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Cedar Grove church. This church is one of DeKalb county's old landmarks and is located in a picturesque setting in a grove of large cedar trees.

The second Sunday in June for the past 76 years has been set aside for children's day and farmers and their friends for miles around gather there annually for the celebration.

H. DuBose Moore, superintendent of the Sunday school, announced today a program of music would be a feature and the Rev. W. M. Hinton, the pastor, will speak. Several Atlantaans will attend, including Durrell Key, John H. Rountree, R. S. Steele, B. F. Morris, Homer Moore, Mac Morris, Alvin Moore, James L. Key, Elmo Moore and Ernest C. Bell. A picnic dinner will follow the service.

LOCAL COLLEGE OPENS BRANCH AT DALLAS, GA.

Dallas, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—The Atlanta Business college has opened a branch school of commerce here to encourage young people of Spaulding county to remain at home and study, officials of the college announced today.

Quite a number of 1926 graduates of Dallas High school have enrolled and county authorities are co-operating by permitting sessions in the court house. B. Dixon Hall, president of the Atlanta institution, stated he was gratified with the excellent start made by the local school.

The organization work has been in charge of A. H. Johnson and after all details are arranged he will visit other Georgia towns with a view of establishing additional branches. The college now operates branches in 15 towns of Georgia and Tennessee, the enrollment exceeding 600 students.

MRS. M. H. WOODALL DIES IN ACWORTH; LAST RITES TODAY

Acworth, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. M. H. Woodall, 67, wife of the late M. H. Woodall, of Fairburn, clerk of the Campbell county superior court for about 30 years, died in Acworth at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest L. Collins, Wednesday morning after an illness of several weeks.

She is survived by the following sons and daughters: F. M. and J. M. Woodall and Mrs. Pearl McClure, all of Atlanta; Mrs. S. E. Marston, of Augusta; and Mrs. E. L. Collins, of Acworth.

Mrs. Woodall was born in Campbell county and is one of the oldest residents of that section. The funeral will be held at Fairburn Thursday afternoon.

REVENUE AGENTS HELD ON BRIBERY CHARGES
New York, June 9.—(P)—Two internal revenue agents were arrested here charged with accepting a bribe of $17,500 from Clifford W. Smith, a millionaire of Rockland, Maine. The men, Victor H. Bergholz and Joseph M. Staller, are alleged to have persuaded Mr. Smith to reduce excess income taxes for him by $100,000. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $8,000 bail each.

Americans Tell Story ONE IS HANGED BUT CUT DOWN ALIVE Of Escape From Bandits

San Antonio, Texas, June 9.—(AP)—How two Americans were kidnapped and threatened with death at the hands of Mexican bandits, but were finally rescued by Mexican troops after an engagement with the bandit band was told here today by Jules B. Gallagher, 34, mining engineer, one of the captives.

Gallagher and C. C. Braden, an associate, were working near Descurtidors, Durango, when captured two weeks ago by Mexican bandits; under Juan Galindo, Braden, refusing to write a ransom letter, was hanged and cut down when he yielded.

Gallagher's story of the capture, as told to the San Antonio Light follows: "Braden and I were inspecting mining lands. We were working in the bottom of an abandoned shaft, when a Mexican came down to us and said he had a message from General Galindo. So we followed the man up to the daylight. There sat Galindo and four of his men.

"I want you both to come as my guests and inspect some of my land for me, not far away," the bandit chief said. "I looked at Braden, Braden looked at me. The odds were five to two and as we glanced around the little circle, each of the men was frowning a little, eyeing us intently.

"Sure we'll be glad to come, General," I told him. "The little band rode into the mountains and came to an old Spanish hacienda, evidently abandoned for several years before Galindo took it over as headquarters.

"I am asking 12,000 pesos ($6,000) for your lives," he informed us. "We are not worth that much," I told him and Braden and I both tried to laugh it off.

"But your families probably think so," General Galindo said, and he laughed. "You both now will write your families, telling them you are my guests and will remain so, until I receive that sum of money.

"We both protested, but he insisted. "All right, I'll write," I said. "But I don't think it will do any good."

"I'm damned if I will," Braden said. "Galindo finally called the guard. 'This gentleman,' he said, 'doesn't like our hospitality. He has decided he wants to go on a long trip instead.'"

"The bandits got some rope, tied him securely about the body, hands behind him, and then slipped a rope about his neck, hangman fashion. There was no noose in it, however.

"Anything to say, my friend?" Galindo asked him. "No," said Braden. "You haven't got the guts to kill us. You know the whole United States army would be on your heels as soon as it was known."

"Haven't I?" Galindo asked. He was smiling. "Well, my friend, in this business one learns that a life more or less means little."

"Then he gave the order and they swung Braden to a tree. Braden's face was growing red and he was slowly strangling.

"How about it now?" Galindo asked. "Will you write the little letter which I so graciously asked. Surely you won't let your host outdo you in courtesy?"

"Galindo ordered him cut down and he wrote the note.

"After five days at the old hacienda Galindo broke camp and we decided that rescue was on the way. 'But they won't find us,' Galindo laughed. 'The surprise attack was made possible because one of the outposts fell asleep.'

"Galindo and Corral, his aide, were standing by us when the battle began. 'No corran muchachos,' (hold on, boys) Galindo called. He stood in the open in the center of his band and fired revolvers with both hands. Corral did likewise.

"Corral fell dead, three feet from us. Two other men were killed and several wounded.

"Galindo himself was bleeding when he turned to us and said: 'Goodbye, my friends, we'll meet again, I hope.' Then he and one man made their escape."

DANCE CHAMPION OF CONSTITUTION ON RADIO TONIGHT

Miss Trint Jackson, pretty Atlanta girl who won The Constitution-Public "Champion Beauty" tournament, recently, will appear on the radio program at station WMCA, Hotel McAlpin, in New York, tonight, according to dispatches received in Atlanta Wednesday.

Winners of similar contests in eleven other cities will take part with Miss Jackson in the program Thursday night. Miss Jackson will be on the air at 11 o'clock, eastern standard time.

Bainbridge Expands.

HELP MESSAGE SENT BY WARD

Trenton, N. J., June 9.—(AP)—Search for Walter S. Ward, wealthy New Yorker, tonight had progressed along the east shore of the Delaware river to Seudder's Falls, five miles north of Trenton. At the same time Pennsylvania state police were scouring the west bank of the river, co-operating with the New Jersey troops in response to a message signed "Ward" and stating that the writer was imprisoned in a shack three miles north of Trenton on the east bank of the river.

The message was tied to a barrier pigeon found exhausted today in a suburb of Philadelphia.

Ward has been missing since early in May. His automobile was found abandoned here on May 8, its windshield shattered and a large rock on the front seat.

Mitchell President Scoutmasters' Club

Harry O. Mitchell, well-known Atlantan, was elected president of the Scoutmasters' Club of Atlanta to succeed Jack Savage, retiring president, at the annual meeting of the organization, held Wednesday night at Wesley Memorial church.

Mr. Mitchell is Scoutmaster of Troop 2 and has served in this capacity during the past six years. He has taken a leading part in various activities of the Atlanta council and served as director of the first council leaders' school two years ago.

Other officers elected are: First vice president, Frank G. Smith, scoutmaster of Troop 1; Haperville, second vice president, F. G. Marshall, scoutmaster, Troop 21; secretary, W. W. Foote, scoutmaster, Troop 1; Treasurer, J. J. Foote, scoutmaster, Troop 1; Edgewood.

Four patrols were organized with the following appointed as leaders: Frank Smith, W. W. Foote, F. G. Marshall and Charles H. Mitchell. A contest is to be waged, it was announced, between these patrols and a prize is to be awarded by Jack Savage to the leader of the winning patrol.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation of resolutions of appreciation of Chief A. A. Jameson, scout executive of Atlanta, in recognition of his long service to the boys of the community and for his interest in the work of the Scoutmasters' club.

The Scoutmasters' club was organized a year ago for the purpose of bringing together the scout leaders of Atlanta. The club meets once a month at Wesley Memorial church.

BAPTISTS APPROVE HOME MISSIONS BUDGET OF $825,000

Approving a budget of $825,000 for mission work during the next year, the members of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention closed an annual two-day session Wednesday afternoon at the First Baptist church. Rev. W. M. Seay, pastor of West End Baptist church, was elected president of the body for the coming year.

Charles H. Gray, corresponding secretary, J. W. Beagle, superintendent of indirect missions, W. W. Gaines, attorney for the Baptist convention board and Ellis Fuller, superintendent of the evangelistic department.

Included in the $825,000 financial budget was an appropriation of $100,000 to be used for evangelistic work. Reports from the recent Southern Baptist convention in Houston, Texas, were read and approved and it was recommended that the supervision of the Southern Baptist mission at El Paso, Texas, be transferred to the Baptist hospital commission of the Southern Baptist convention.

EAST POINT ADOPTS NEW BOULEVARD LAW

East Point, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) Four main thoroughfares have been designated as boulevards by city council, the ordinance to take effect next Monday morning. The boulevards will be Main street, East Point avenue, Church street and Newman avenue. "Stop" signals are being placed at strategic points to warn motorists.

New Mill Planned.

Bainbridge, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) A. L. Howell, of Samsom, Ala., is planning to build a shuttle mill here. It was learned today when he held a conference with J. A. Reid, city clerk, concerning a building permit. It is understood the mill will be constructed near the tracks of the Atlantic Coast Line.

MIAMI TAB ORDERED TO VACATE BUILDING

Miami, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Vanderbilt's Illustrated Daily Tab today was ordered by Judge J. B. Shipper to vacate its present home and plant here by June 20. The court order was handed down in the case of News Tower, Inc., a subsidiary of the Miami Daily News, against Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc.

The action was brought under the landlord and tenant's act, alleging nonfulfillment of contract by failure to pay rent. No announcement has been made by officials of the Tab regarding future publication.

ATLANTAN IS HONORED BY WATERWORKS MEN

Captain Robert Clayton, for 35 years chief of construction of the city of Atlanta, builder of the city's first waterworks in 1879 and one of the most prominent construction men in the entire south, has been elected an honorary life member of the American Waterworks association, according to advices reaching the city Wednesday. This honor was bestowed on Captain Clayton at the annual convention of the association at Philadelphia.

William A. Hansell, present chief of construction, is a nephew of Captain Clayton and was trained in the latter's office. The sewage disposal plant, which Captain Clayton constructed while in office, is considered one of the best in this section of the country.

SON OF FORMER ATLANTAN DIES IN PHILADELPHIA

News was received in Atlanta Wednesday of the death of William S. Brown, son of Lieutenant Colonel Hugh S. Brown, formerly of Atlanta, who died from an attack of pneumonia at his home in Philadelphia. Mr. Brown was a sophomore in the University of Pennsylvania. Funeral services were held Tuesday, in Philadelphia.

Mr. Brown's father was a graduate from Atlanta's public schools and the University of Georgia. After his graduation from the state college at Athens, Mr. Brown entered the service of the United States army. He is now a lieutenant colonel stationed at Fort Clayton, Panama.

Mr. Brown was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and was one of the most popular students at Pennsylvania. He is survived by his father and mother, three uncles, Colonel Walter H. Brown, William S. Brown, and Leonard W. Brown, and two aunts, Miss Cora Ann Brown and Mrs. Frances B. Chase, all of Atlanta. He was a great-nephew of the late W. R. (Cap) Joyner, former mayor of Atlanta and a prominent figure in the city's early development.

Today!

the most sensational development
in OIL HEAT history:

THE NEW Silent NOKOL

It is commanding the attention, the interest of America's thinking homeowners right now. Because it changes all past ideas of automatic oil heating for homes. Because it surpasses all comfort records of the past. You can see it in operation—here—today.

CROWDS of people who own homes in this city and territory are filling our show-rooms—day after day—to see the new Silent NOKOL in operation. Every NOKOL show-room in America is having the same experience.

The reason is that no home-owner can afford to miss seeing and knowing about this tremendous betterment in oil heat.

It is, on every count, the most important development in home-heating methods since nine years ago—NOKOL made it possible to heat homes automatically, with oil as fuel.

A fifteen-minute visit will give you the whole story; will give you a valuable and entirely new idea of the comfort now possible in heating any home—large or small.

What you'll see:

You'll find the same efficient NOKOL which has been heating more than 29,000 homes for periods up to nine years... BUT:

You'll find operating noise now cut to the vanishing point!

You'll find the same NOKOL which has given all these homes fully automatic heat at lowest known cost....

Now made more efficient than ever before!

You'll actually see why NOKOL has never made soot; has never covered furnishings, walls, woodwork with dirty, oily film.

And you'll learn why there has never been any offensive odor of oil burning—inside or outside any NOKOL-heated home.

You'll discover why NOKOL does not have to burn dirty, foul-smelling, low-grade oil-fuel in order to heat a home with economy.

An appeal to thinkers:

NOKOL was first to give American homes practical, economical automatic oil heat, nine years ago.

More homes are equipped with NOKOL today than with any other automatic oil heat. A total of more than $22,000,000 invested in NOKOL equipment, by American home-owners, up to the end of 1925. And so far in 1926 NOKOL sales to home-owners are running 75% ahead of any previous, corresponding period in NOKOL history.

Certified, satisfied owners have given NOKOL its continuous, record-setting growth. There is important truth—in these facts of open record—for every thinking man or woman.

In short—you'll find the same NOKOL which has established all present records for comfort with automatic oil heat... Now capable of still greater comfort—by one simple betterment.

Right here—today—the new Silent NOKOL is operating, just as it would operate in your present heating plant.

Every question answered!

We're here, to answer questions—if you wish—rather than to sell you something.

You'll find it one of the few automatic oil burners made in adequate range of sizes to fit every heating plant, every home—large or small.

You'll find that the new NOKOL Purchase Plan offers unusual financial convenience: a small down payment now, nothing more till October 1, then a year for balance.

A 15-minute visit

This is something that immediately, intimately concerns the comfort and health of your family; your wife, the youngsters, yourself!

See it—spend 10 or 15 minutes. No matter how much or how little you've considered oil heat—see it. No matter how your home is now heated—see it. Because this is a new factor in the science of modern comfortable living.

THE NEW Silent NOKOL

First domestic oil burner listed by Underwriters' Laboratories; approved by all leading safety boards. Manufactured and guaranteed by AMERICAN NOKOL COMPANY, Chicago.

Sales in the city of Atlanta have increased several hundred per cent over 1925. The answer is: Over one hundred and fifty satisfied and enthusiastic users. Ask us for the names of engineers and technical men who have made a careful investigation.

Georgia Trustees Slated To Name New Chancellor

Athens, Ga., June 9.—With the annual session here Thursday, the 125th annual commencement of the University of Georgia begins, to continue through Wednesday, June 16, graduation day. The senior class contains 253 members, the largest in the history of the institution, representing ten departments of study.

Herbert Hoover is this year's baccalaureate orator.

The board is slated to elect a permanent chancellor for the university at this session. It will be recalled that following the resignation of Chancellor David C. Barrow last June, and his subsequent election as chancellor emeritus, Dean Charles M. Snelling was made acting chancellor for the 1925-1926 session.

The first public address of commencement comes Sunday in Woodruff hall, when Bishop Warren A. Candlish of Atlanta, delivers the baccalaureate sermon. Monday is university day, at which time representatives of the various branches of the university, both in Athens and over the state, will have representatives on the program.

In the afternoon, William Lenhart McPherson, an editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, delivers the Phi Beta Kappa address in the chapel.

Graduation exercises will be held Wednesday morning in Woodruff hall, at which time Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover delivers the baccalaureate address, to be followed by delivery of diplomas.

The board of trustees of the State College of Agriculture are:

William E. Simmons, Lawrenceville; James E. Hays, Monticello; Dudley M. Hughes, Danville; L. G. Hardman, Commerce; John J. Brown, Atlanta; F. M. Cates, Waynesboro; James J. Conner, Cartersville; A. S. Chamblee, Bartow; John A. Gaston, Greenville; Frank T. Kidd, Hartwell; Ford E. Land, Atlanta; T. W. Reed, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. McMullen, who succeeded his father on the board and who served as a member for several years, has been reappointed to succeed Julian B. McCurry, formerly of Athens and Hartwell. Mr. McCurry has moved to Florida.

CONSTRUCTION WORK COMES TO 5 MILLION

Building and engineering contracts awarded during May in the state of Georgia made a total of $5,332,500 and in Atlanta, a total of $2,071,200, according to announcement Wednesday by F. W. Dodge Corporation.

For the state there were decreases of 51 per cent from April 1926, as well as 37 per cent from May of last year. The figure for the city showed a gain of 11 per cent over the preceding month, but there was a loss of 51 per cent from May, 1925.

New construction started in Georgia during the first five months of 1926 amounted to $40,840,400, which exceeded the record for the corresponding five months of last year by 44 per cent.

Atlanta's total of contracts let during the first five months of this year amounted to $12,117,700, being a decrease of 19 per cent from the figure for the corresponding period of 1925.

The more important classes in Georgia's building record during May were $2,769,300, or 52 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $1,268,700, or 24 per cent, for public works and utilities; $334,000, or 7 per cent for commercial buildings; $255,000, or 5 per cent for religious and memorial buildings; $282,000, or 5 per cent for industrial buildings, and $153,500, or 3 per cent for educational buildings.

Atlanta's building record for May included $1,560,500, or 75 per cent for residential buildings; $188,700, or 9 per cent for public works and utilities; $178,000, or 9 per cent for commercial buildings, and $75,000, or 4 per cent for religious and memorial buildings.

BIG BETHEL CHOIRS IN CONCERT TONIGHT

Big Bethel choirs No. 1 and No. 2, composed of 75 splendid voices, will render a program of negro spirituals and plantation melodies Thursday night at the Municipal Auditorium for the benefit of the golden age encampment.

Chief of Police Beavers will make a brief talk before the program in which he will explain the needs of Atlanta young people for proper recreation and entertainment. Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, educational secretary of the North Georgia conference and president of the board of directors of the Golden Age Encampment, will preside.

The Big Bethel program will include such favorite numbers as "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray" and "Little David, Play on Your Harp."

The Golden Age Encampment is located on the banks of the Chattahoochee river, an hour's ride by auto from Atlanta. A picnic is planned for young people of the city to be held at the encampment in the near future.

BEAVERS EXTOLS COURTESY, WORK, TO MEN OF FORCE

Members of the various watches of the Atlanta police force were instructed Wednesday to "go to work," by Chief James I. Beavers. Short talks were made to all watches and all members of the force were reminded by the chief that it is their duty to "attend to business" for the good of the city and members of the police department.

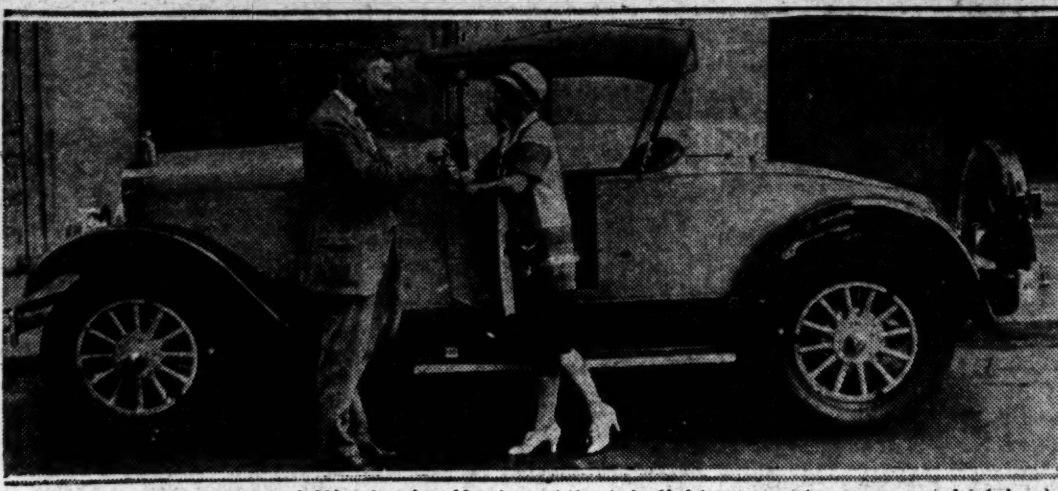

He gave three principles which he urged the members of the department to observe:

"Be courteous, polite, patient, and refrain from harsh and uncouth language while dealing with citizens.

Become thoroughly acquainted with the streets and alleys of the city; become acquainted with people residing on particular beats and report all suspicious places and people.

"Be conservative in prisoners and use 'billy' and pistol only in self defense."

STATE RESTS CASE AGAINST PRODUCER

New York, June 9.—(AP)—After taking more than a week to present its side of the perjury case against Charles H. Duell, former president of Inspiration Pictures, Inc., the government has rested its case.

The perjury charges are an aftermath of Duell's attempt to invoke court aid to restrain Lillian Gish, screen star, from appearing in films made by other companies. Nathan Burkan, counsel for the accused, asked that it be made a matter of record that, although Miss Gish was in the city, the government did not call her to testify.

Duell will take the stand in his own defense tomorrow.

D.A.V. CONVENTION FUND NOW $14,002

Subscriptions to the $35,000 entertainment fund for the Disabled American Veterans' national convention, which will be held in Atlanta June 21-26, are coming in slowly, according to reports from headquarters Wednesday afternoon.

During the day $230 was reported subscribed, which brings the total to $14,002.62.

Workers are busy in various parts of the city securing funds which will go for the entertainment of the visiting veterans.

Members of the committee are expecting more than 5,000 delegates to attend the convention and plans are being made to care for at least that many.

Subscriptions reported Wednesday follow:

MRS. VINSON'S PLEA POSTPONED TO JULY

Through agreement of counsel, hearing of a petition for a parole filed by Mrs. Cora Lou Vinson, serving a life term for killing her husband, will be postponed until the July session of the state prison commission, it was announced Wednesday.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin has stated he will appear before the commission at that time and oppose granting of clemency to Mrs. Vinson, who was convicted about three years ago. Mrs. Vinson first was sentenced to be executed but the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

"Love Me Less or Love Me More"

Certain it is that today we are out of favor with Europe—and no dislike is so difficult to cure as an unreasonable and unreasonable one. What can one say to a lady who merely reiterates, "I no longer love you"? Patience—and good will, and good sense are the only weapons that can serve us. And how skillfully President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg are employing them is outlined in Richard Washburn Child's salient article, "Patience Our Policy," in The Saturday Evening Post, now on sale, five cents.

BANBURY CROSS By Frances Noyes Hart

Imagine if you can a great opera star who loathed her own singing, and a great music critic who hated music. Imagine a background of romantic mystery for the lady—hints of European intrigue, shadowy castles in the Pyrenees, Basque bravos muffled in their great cloaks, cheering crowds in every capital from Leningrad to Rome.

Then toss lady and critic into a tiny New England village—and watch the fireworks.

THE TILSON APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of W. J. Tilson, of Atlanta, to the federal judgeship in the new middle Georgia district was anticipated. He is a lifelong republican, a brother of the majority leader in the lower house of congress, Representative John O. Tilson, of Connecticut, and a state leader who has very largely kept out of the petty factional fights of his party in Georgia. He has been regarded generally by all the republican organization heads in the state for many years as one of the most available men for their party ranks for the third judgeship, the creation of which has long been seen as inevitable. His appointment, therefore, does not come in the nature of a surprise, and from every viewpoint as to ability, character, temperament and fitness there can be no objection to it.

It is announced that his confirmation will be opposed by both the Georgia senators, but this opposition will be hinged entirely upon the fact that Mr. Tilson does not reside in the new middle district. There are honest differences of opinion on this point without in any way involving personal or professional issues or problems. In protesting confirmation of this nomination, both of the Georgia senators concede the admirable personal qualities of Mr. Tilson and state that their objection is based solely upon the fact that the appointee does not come from the district in which he will serve.

FLETCHER RENOMINATED.

The renomination of United States Senator Duncan U. Fletcher in the Florida primaries Tuesday was anticipated. Few men in either branch of congress have served their constituents and their sections more conscientiously and more ably. He has always been soundly conservative, and yet aggressive and vigorous for those constructive policies, regardless of party endorsement, that have meant a greater and a more prosperous country. He belongs to the old school of Jeffersonian democrats who believe in the sovereign rights of states, and in as little federal interference as is consistent with our institutions of government. He has always supported the complete divorce of revenue legislation from party considerations, and has earnestly sought the adjustment of the tariff to save best local situations, without either a swing of the pendulum to free trade or to protection. He has led in educational matters, in the rehabilitation of the merchant marine, and in the development of rivers and harbors, and the nation's almost priceless inland waterway opportunities. During the war he was a loyal supporter of the administration, and subsequently of the Wilson peace policies. He is the ranking democrat on the very powerful commerce committee, and is also on banking and currency, military affairs and other important committees. During the democratic majority he was chairman of the commerce committee.

Senator Fletcher is a native of Georgia, and was prepared for college at Gordon Institute, Barnesville. He is a man of profound learning, having graduated at Vanderbilt, and honored with the LL.D. by the John B. Stetson university. He has been a member of the senate since March 4, 1909, and the fact that he has been overwhelmingly returned in the face of heavy opposition attests his strength and popularity.

BOARD ACTED WISELY.

The Atlanta board of education acted with commendable wisdom in declining to change the rules by which the superintendent of city schools might be ignored in the election of department officials.

That the proposal should have been made, thus precipitating the entire school system of Atlanta further into a seething melting pot of personal and factional politics, was most unfortunate. It developed a tendency that is destructive to discipline and morale, and that has already, unfortunately, found entirely too great a foothold in the one department of the city administration that should be always entirely divorced from any kind of selfish, sordid or other political influences.

The board is to be warmly congratulated for having rejected the majority report of the rules committee. To keep the Atlanta school system from out of the political squabbling, and the dictatorial and other nagging policies and petty interferences that have weakened other departments of the city government, ought to be so paramount an obligation that any attempt at any other course should arouse the public conscience to a militant duty of protest.

NEW YORK'S WAY.

The state of New York is mastering the traffic tragedy problem by rigidly enforcing a driver license law and by supplementing criminal prosecutions for recklessness by revocations and suspensions of the licenses. According to dispatches from the capital of that state, 127 licenses have been revoked and 244 suspended in two weeks. The authorities are determined to make the streets and highways as safe as is humanly possible and they are succeeding. In proportion to the gross street and road mileage, and the volume of motor traffic, the traffic accidents from all causes in that state are decidedly fewer than in Georgia, and the situation is getting better each day.

The license laws in New York provide first that no person, whether owner or employee, shall drive an automobile who is not acquainted from experience with the operation of gasoline motors, and who is not capable, intellectually, temperamentally and morally, to operate a moving vehicle. Minors under a stipulated age are prohibited from driving under any circumstances, and applicants who have police records for crime or ineptness are prohibited from securing drivers' licenses.

Visitors to New York city wonder at the efficiency of the taxi drivers. It is the rigid license system that demands that efficiency. In Georgia there are no regulations of this nature. A few feeble laws exist as to minors driving and there are even license laws, but they are dead letters. Laws that are wholly ignored are worse than no laws. They invite flagrant violations of all laws. In Georgia a mere child may drive a high-powered automobile or a heavy motor truck and no attention is paid to it until an accident occurs and one or more lives have been snuffed into eternity. In the fatal accident in Atlanta Sunday a 12-year-old boy was driving one of the colliding trucks. Is there any wonder that Atlanta's streets are not safe?

In New York a drunken driver not only loses his license to drive, but he is severely punished in the criminal courts. A few lessons of that sort here in Atlanta would have a most salutary effect.

Mrs. Nelson Says She

Did Not Support Slate

Editor The Constitution: Your city hall reporter is usually just to the board of education, but in reporting

the confining meeting of June 8, he unintentionally misquoted me, when he said that I endorsed Mr. Slate's resolution to have the board elect the administrative force and the teachers,

after the superintendent had made three nominations which were unsatisfactory to the board.

I stated that I had no desire whatever to assume the responsibility of electing the superintendent, but that there was another side to the question. While the superintendent needed loyal supporters, so did the board.

I then mentioned symptoms of inassatisfaction against the board on the part of certain of the administrative force. Certain members of the board knew better the meeting at which I would not vote for the Slate resolution.

I did not say that the superintendent and employees were to be elected too often. I know of no one but Mr. Sut-tending the Atlanta schools. It is a

Atlanta Federation of Trades at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night in the Labor temple, endorsed the daylight saving or eastern time, following a two-hour discussion in which practically every member had a part.

Adoption of daylight saving or eastern time, for Atlanta, has been under consideration for more than two years by the federation. It is a general opinion that this city, which has been waiting upon the federation of trades to act on this matter, before any official step is made, since the theory of those who will be affected by the new time is members of the federation of trades.

Practical elimination of all opposition to the proposed change of time trades, culminated at the Wednesday night meeting, when letters from the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the Atlanta Clearing House association, favoring the change, were read before the members.

The meeting was in charge of J.

Sid Tiller, president of the federation of trades. Luther Still, candidate for the legislature, was one of the speakers at the meeting.

A moving picture booth has been installed in the Labor temple, and the first picture was shown Wednesday night. It was a feature comedy.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

will make our streets eternal valleys of shadows.

On the white way, a pretty, rosy-checked girl in short skirts took her stand at Broadway and Thirty-fourth street. She was going to sell flowers. It seemed to me more men bought flowers than women. By actual count during five minutes of observation the ratio was about 10-2 in favor of the masculine gender.

Her arms had dimples like her cheeks. Her hair was golden. She was neatly dressed, though not in the least luxurious or extravagant.

An imported Italian roadster roared past. In the tonneau was a middle-aged man, his hands leaning on a silver-topped cane. He saw the girl and ordered his chauffeur to stop. He got out himself, bought some flowers and chatted with the girl. I could see a crisp yellow change hands and the girl threw him a glance of rapture with big dark eyes.

Two minutes later the car came back. It had been around the block. The man got out again. There was some conversation. Then suddenly the girl decided. She left her baskets and climbed into the car. Romance in the city was a thing of the past.

The incident was a thing of the past. The girl was on the drive, where a lady of marvelous beauty is installed, who cannot either read or write and who is persona non grata in the society world because of her humble East Side antecedents, but whose banker lover is like a boy who obeys her least whims with the devotion of a slave.

Hearing Is Slated June 15 In Street Extension Case

Litigation between the city of Chattanooga and the state of Georgia over opening of Broad street through state-owned property will come to a head at a hearing to be held in the Hamilton county circuit court June 15, according to a statement made public Wednesday by Attorney General George M. Napier, representing Georgia. This hearing will be held following lines of a decision handed down in Knoxville Wednesday by Judge Hal E. Portum, of the Tennessee court of appeals, who sustained a writ of supersedeas preventing Chattanooga from taking further steps to open the street until a hearing in the case can be held.

Attorney General Napier said the hearing June 15 will be to determine the right of the city to proceed under the law to condemn property of the state of Georgia for street extension purposes. If the court holds that the city has this authority, the case will be tried on its merits with a view toward ascertaining the amount of damages that should be paid to the state. In recent proceedings, a jury of view fixed the damages at $150,000. Attorney General Napier said this sum was unsatisfactory and that the state of Georgia, for this reason, will continue to fight in the courts for equitable disposition of the case.

Judge Portum ruled Wednesday that the attempt of the city of Chattanooga to take the property of Georgia before a hearing is a denial of due process of law which contemplates a hearing before judgment and judgment before execution.

The city of Chattanooga's contention that the state of Georgia was bound by a contract executed by the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad with the city "because the governor of the state of Georgia, upon advice of the attorney general, recognized the right of the railroad to make the contract," was a contention that should be made on its merits in the trial in the court below, according to the ruling of Judge Portum.

No new developments came Wednesday in the proposed outer proceedings in which the city of Chattanooga will seek to throw the state of Georgia's property into a receivership under contention that the state's charter to build a railroad does not per-

DONEHOOD AGAIN HEAD

BLIND ASSOCIATION

Paul Donehod, of Atlanta, was re-elected president of the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind, Wednesday, at the closing session of the annual convention at the Baptist Tabernacle. W. S. Cooper, of Winder, was elected first vice president; Harry Delaney, of Atlanta, second vice president; Roy Bradley, secretary, and J. H. Childs, treasurer.

George B. Goddard, director of vocational and rehabilitation work in Georgia, gave an address at the Wednesday night session. Talks also were given by Dr. Marvin Williams, pastor of Wesley Memorial church, and Mrs. L. F. Lynn, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Lynn urged establishment of a training and workshop for Atlanta blind, and after a round-table discussion of the matter it was referred to the executive board for action. Mrs. Lynn has been interested in this work for many years. She recently moved to Atlanta and has begun a movement to establish a shop here.

Mr. Goddard was appointed to study the shop at Birmingham, Ala., with a view of planning one for Atlanta. This step, officials say, will mean a great benefit to the blind of this city and the state and will give them adequate training.

W. E. Cooper was appointed to go before the annual meeting of the Georgia Weekly Press association and discuss with members the campaign which is to be launched for a state library for the blind.

One of the chief features of the convention this year was the discussion of plans to obtain a commission of the blind at the next session of the legislature. Every effort will be made, it was stated, to induce passage of a law establishing a state commission.

NEW YORK CENTRAL PLANS CONSOLIDATION

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The New York Central Railroad company today announced plans for consolidation of its principal subsidiaries—the Michigan Central, the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis and the Cincinnati Northern railroads—through long-term leases. At the same time, the company will increase its authorized capital stock from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Control of the Michigan Central and the "Big Four" has rested with the New York Central for some time and the present move is designed to effect a closer financial and operating union of the lines. Directors of the subsidiary companies have approved the leases, which run for 990 years, and will vote upon them at a special meeting next September. The proposed lease of the Michigan Central calls for an annual rental, including a dividend on the Michigan Central stock pledged as collateral for the 3-1/2 per cent collateral bonds and an amount equal to 50 per cent on Michigan Central stock not owned by the New York Central, which amounts to less than 1 per cent. A dividend of 17 1/2 per cent was declared on the Michigan Central shares today.

THE Best Investment in Atlanta Today.

Beautiful Garden Hills

IN THE HEART OF ATLANTA'S FINEST RESIDENTIAL SECTION

PROFIT in Atlanta real estate has followed Peachtree Road and its tributary streets north, ever since Atlanta was founded. The purchase of property in this zone of growth has invariably returned a quick and substantial profit to investors. Those far-seeing men and women who just a few years ago pioneered in the purchase of Ansley Park and Peachtree Hills lots have lived to see their faith in Atlanta and in Atlanta's North Side rewarded with profits more generous than they had dreamed of.

Today well-located, desirable North Side real estate is in greater demand and is advancing in price more rapidly than at any time in Atlanta's history.

In view of these established facts, the Garden Hills Corporation presents Garden Hills, in the heart of Atlanta's finest North Side residential section, as the best investment in Atlanta today.

Location:

Garden Hills is in the center of Atlanta's profit zone of Real Estate. It is not on the edge of what's going to be, but right in the heart of things that are. It is virtually surrounded by the finest homes and estates in America. Garden Hills lies directly between and faces on Peachtree Road and Piedmont Avenue, Atlanta's two famous thoroughfares north.

Every lot in Garden Hills is quickly accessible to both these two highways. Garden Hills is the last large tract of land lying between Peachtree Road and Piedmont Avenue that is subject to development. Land on all sides of it is in demand—a demand that exceeds the supply—and monthly, and even weekly readjustments of prices upward in this preferred North Side section are not unusual.

Price:

Garden Hills property is being offered by the developers. It has not been sold and resold on the market, and its resale values (unlike those of almost any other North Side property) have yet to accrue.

Present prices of Garden Hills property are essentially pre-development prices. They are strictly temporary. Of course they will rise—and quickly. It is not logical to believe that they will remain at their present levels when property on all sides of Garden Hills is priced from 50% to 60% higher. To get a clear conception of the investment values that they offer at their present levels, it is only necessary to compare Garden Hills prices with property nearby.

Just across the street from Garden Hills, on Andrews Drive, property is being sold—not being held—for $100 to $150 a front foot. In Garden Hills, in the exclusive Country Club section—the most beautiful estates in Atlanta, high and heavily wooded, facing a winding boulevard—you can buy your choice of estate sites from $60 to $70 a front foot, and some of them have as much as 400-foot depths.

In the fashionable and fully developed Peachtree Road section you can buy a spacious 60-foot lot for as little as $2500. In the beautiful Brentwood section, lots on wide boulevards—tree-clad building sites—may be bought from $1500 to $2500.

When you buy a Garden Hills lot today at their present prices, you get not only a specified piece of property but you get the profit, too, because the profit is still in them—it has not been traded out.

Where can you find a safer, surer profit for your investment funds? The day you purchase a Garden Hills lot you have a potential profit. This profit will increase more rapidly than in any other investment you can make. Actually, when you buy in Garden Hills, you are buying a part of Atlanta's future, and Atlanta faces the most glorious future in her history.

But if you are to share in the profits, it is necessary that you act quickly. Don't do as thousands of other Atlantans did when Ansley Park and Peachtree Hills were offered them—delay until it is too late. Investigate Garden Hills today. Prove for yourself that these statements are based on facts. Then remember that Garden Hills lots can be bought with a cash payment as small as 15% and the balance can be paid with 60 monthly notes. It won't take you long to decide that nowhere else in Atlanta can such a large return be made upon such a small investment of cash.

Before you invest in a homesite, investigate Garden Hills, prove to yourself that all the glowing accounts of its location, its beauty, and moderate price are true. If you will do this, we will be perfectly satisfied with your decision.

If you will call our Downtown office, Walnut 5701—197 Peachtree Street—a courteous representative will be detailed to aid you in your inspection and pricing of this property.

THESE GUARANTEED DEVELOPMENTS COST YOU NOT ONE PENNY, YET THEY ADD TO YOUR INVESTMENT

Swimming Pool and Club

A thoroughly modern swimming pool and Country Club building will form the center of the recreation area being built for the exclusive use and enjoyment of Garden Hills home owners. The Club, of Normandy Architecture, will reflect the substantial character of every Garden Hills improvement. Dressing rooms and lockers will be provided for the convenience of residents using the pool and nearby tennis courts.

Playground

Near the center of the property is the playground. It is more than five acres in extent and is being built with every needed equipment for healthful exercise and ample room for zestful play for Garden Hills children.

Riding Tracks

Surrounding the whole recreation center and winding under the shade of stately pines, is the riding track, soon to feel the crunch of spirited hoofs on gravel.

Landscaping and Improvements

Along Peachtree Road, landscaping and every modern improvement is completed. In the Country Club and Brentwood Sections, winding roads, rustic bridges over rocky brooks, broad parks will make even more exquisite their natural charm. Of course, paving, water, lights and storm and sanitary sewers are being extended to every part of Garden Hills, and these modern improvements will shortly be completed.

BAND CONCERT SUNDAY, 4 TO 6 P. M.

Beginning next Sunday there will be a sacred concert by a popular band in beautiful Sunny Brook Park in Garden Hills from 4 to 6 each Sunday through June. Come out, bring the children and enjoy these two hours in the most attractive and complete park in Atlanta.

Statement of Dr. L. G. Hardman On His Candidacy for Governor

To the Public: I am sure the people of Georgia have had their minds directed to the condition of affairs in the state for the last few years, and certainly so in the last few months, concerning matters that may be partly economic, partly political and partly personal.

Now the time has come when Georgia must be actively interested in her state and determine whether or not these conditions shall exist, whether they shall cease or be modified. This is a question that must appeal to every voter and should be considered from the standpoint of Georgia and the interest of the entire state, every endeavor and every individual, are these agitations and discords helpful to Georgia? Have the agitators within themselves the highest ideals—looking to the greatest development of the state or are they personal and political—looking to preference, factions and individuals? Can we help Georgia by this continuation? If we have been benefited by this course and, if not, shall they cease?

I am sure that every Georgian recognizes that when principles are involved that there are divisions of thought for the reason of agitations and personal politics. Would it not be wise to wait until they are settled? Do such conditions exist in Georgia? This is a question you must answer.

The recent agitation that has been brought to the attention looks to the changing of the Constitution of Georgia—its fundamental law. Has that matter had time and are the people's minds and hearts in condition to enter into the Constitution and change it? Would it not be wise, sound and more stable to have the people consider this matter under conditions when there was less agitation, personal and political discord? It is a serious matter to enter upon and break up the fundamental law of a state and change the Constitution, which is the very foundation of its laws. Why shouldn't the voters of Georgia go to the polls and without doing violence or injustice to any politician, personal agitator, select some one, whoever that might be, whom they believe to be capable, fair and just, who would stand for an administration that would be equal, fair and truthful?

In the matter of a bond issue the Constitution must be involved and changes must be made, and after eliminating the feeling that now exists between political factions, would the people not be in better shape to make such changes and plan more stable and greater progressive measures? Should we undertake to dwarf the state by a bond issue for one line alone? NO. Other interests, educational, rural school buildings, rural roads, as well as greater university buildings, should all have a place. We should not issue bonds creating a debt that would leave a legacy of indebtedness to our children and their posterity that would take hundreds of years to pay when we can secure good roads and education by the means of a business administration in handling the affairs of the state.

The politicians and agitators are ready to say, WHAT'S YOUR PLAN? What are their plans? What have they planned and what are the results of their plans? The agitations and platforms have tarred and decayed—they are never thought of or considered after the election is over; many of them are purely political guns for electioneering and stirring up the minds of the people to get into office. Agitations, political and personal, have cost the State certainly over a hundred thousand dollars and what has it brought to us?

Who is the man that's carrying the burden today? It is the farmer and the laboring man—the fundamental source of our progress, and they must have support and assistance, and where are they to get it? It must come through a business administration, supported by business men and men of means of our State. There has never been a time so far as I know in which the real producer needed help as he does today. We should not add more to his burden by increasing his taxes but we should work out a method which can only be done when you have had an opportunity to look into and determine what is a business, sound and stable basis for action. No head of a great corporation can say before he is elected or before the responsibilities are placed upon him, just what he will do; no wise business man can minister or pass upon the duties of an office before he is elected. If he does, he goes into office with his hands tied. No chief executive can say or give in detail just how the affairs of a great state should be handled until he is in office and comes face to face with the issues and understands conditions under which they come; then he is in a position to handle them, unhampered by politicians and factions, and to the best interest, with sound and stable safety, for all the citizens of the State.

Shall the people of Georgia continue in political and personal agitation or shall they, for the good and progress of the state, say at the ballot box that we, with good will to all and ill toward no one, shall elect a chief executive of our State who will stand for the highest ideals of righteousness, honesty, truth and good-will; or shall they harbor in their animosity, political and personal faction, such as every citizen must know does now exist?

It is plain to be seen that certain newspapers and agitators are making great effort to continue these agitations. Is that wisdom, or should these papers come out and seek a man who could give Georgia a sound and business administration; a man who stands for the respect of law and order; a man who could work out a plan, which can be done, that will take care of Georgia and put her in the forefront, and at the same time not increase her burden?

Georgia is a great State and has made great progress, and her opportunities are great, but she will never be able to make permanent and substantial progress so long as agitation and personal politics dominate.

Should any one department of the State dominate the entire interest of the State? Is good roads the only important thing in Georgia and should it dominate at this time? Is the department of agriculture, so important as it is, to be considered and no other interest? Should the matter of health claim the entire attention of the people, important as it is? Shall the banking interest say that there is no other interest so important and dominate over all other interests? Shall the manufacturing say that they are the only interest in the State and dominate?

These thoughts I submit to the people of Georgia for their consideration and ask that every one answer it for himself, his children and their posterity.

L. G. HARDMAN.

Stribling and Berlenbach Set for Title Bout Tonight

Georgia Boy Enters Ring as Favorite Over Title Holder

Stribling's Speed and Superior Boxing Ability Expected To Overcome Berlenbach's Edge As Puncher—Record Crowd Expected To Witness Fight.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Paul Berlenbach, world's light-heavyweight champion, will encounter one of his most formidable foes tomorrow night at the Yankee stadium when he battles William L. ("Young") Stribling, rugged young Georgian, in a 15-round title match.

Preliminary opinion has for the most part favored the chances of Stribling whose speed and boxing ability, now apparently at a high peak, have been figured to offset the awkward aggressiveness and superior punching power of the champion. Today, however, there was a noticeable trend in the sentiment toward Berlenbach.

Both fighters are in excellent condition. Stribling already is a pound or two below the 175-pound limit. There is not likely to be much difference between them when they scale in officially tomorrow afternoon. In their only previous clash, they fought to a six-round draw here in 1924. That was before Berlenbach held the 175-pound title and before Stribling had reached his majority. The Georgian is 21 now, three years younger than the champion.

Third Attempt. This will be Stribling's third attempt to lift the light-heavyweight crown. He tried twice to wrest it from Mike McGuire. Their first match, fought under riotous circumstances in 1923 at Columbus, Ga., was declared a draw. Stribling won on points in their second match, in 1924, but since the bout occurred in Newark, under New Jersey no-decision laws, the Irishman retained his title.

Close to 50,000 fans are expected to witness tomorrow's bout. The "gate" may reach $700,000, in which case Berlenbach, receiving 37 1/2 per cent, will get about $75,000. A few years ago he was driving a restaurant delivery wagon at $12 a week. Stribling's share will be 12 1/2 per cent. Five preliminaries, starting at 7:15 p. m., enters standard time, are scheduled. The most important of these are two 10-rounders, with Sailor Friedman, Chicago welterweight, meeting Jack McVey, of New York, in one, and Sergeant Sammy Hall, in one, and Yankel, of New York, in the other. The main bout is expected to start not later than 9 o'clock, and fair weather is promised.

Sweetser Better After Illness

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Jesse Sweetser, returning on the Aquitania from his successful golf invasion of Great Britain, is very much improved from the cold he contracted while winning the British amateur title. This assurance is given in a message to the Associated Press from Thomas B. Payne, member of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association, who is also a passenger on the Aquitania.

Mr. Payne requested on behalf of Sweetser that no demonstration be staged in his honor when he arrives in New York.

Black Crackers Lose Final Game

The Black Crackers got away to an early lead over the Nashville Giants but were overtaken and defeated in the last game of the series, 5 to 3, Wednesday afternoon at Spiller field.

By bounding Thomas in the first inning the local colored tossers scored two runs to put them in the lead after the Giants had pushed over one run in their half of the initial frame. In the fourth the Black Crackers chalked up another big victory, held from then on, while the visiting team scored two in the fifth and two in the eighth to give them the game.

Jackson traveled the nine innings for the Black Crackers in fine fashion, giving up 12 base knocks as an aid Thomas, twirler for the Giants. Both teams played excellent ball, despite some close calls. The Black Crackers boarded a train headed for Memphis where they play the Memphis colored tossers a four-game series.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Giants..... 100 020 020—3 12 0 Black Crackers 200 100 020—5 12 0 Batteries—Thomas and Toplin; Jackson and Price.

The Georgia Peach enters the square ring at the Stadium in New York tonight with his native south backing him to the limit. Young Stribling's rise in popularity has been little less than meteoric and his contest tonight, we believe, will win for him the coveted light-heavyweight crown.

At the present moment everybody is also intensely interested in finding relief from hot weather, and the best suggestions yet are the light weight suits at Hambright's.

Open White Linen 1-piece suits at $12.50. Other Linen suits at $15 and $18.50. Two-piece Palm Beach suits in light and dark shades at $25. Mohair 1-piece suits at $18.50. Tropical Waxed 2-piece suits at $25 and $30.

THEY SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES TONIGHT

HERE'S THE DOPE; PICK YOUR WINNER

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Paul Berlenbach, the world's light-heavyweight champion, has a slight advantage in reach, but Young Stribling has a margin in height for their title bout tomorrow night at the Yankee stadium.

Statistic comparison of the two gladiators follows:

Berlenbach.	Dimensions.	Stribling.
24	Age	21
5 feet, 10 inches	Height	6 feet
17	Neck	16
40	Chest, Normal	37
44	Chest, Expanded	41

Bill White Leads Seneca Defeats Brunswick Team Toccoa Tossers

Brunswick, Ga., June 9.—(AP)—Co. ch. Bill White, of the University of Georgia, is to manage the new Brunswick baseball team, which was created yesterday at a meeting of the Young Men's club of the Board of Trade.

Brunswick will enter the loop composed of Waycross, Thomasville and Lake City. The season opens here next Monday with the locals matched against Waycross.

Toccoa, Ga., June 9.—(Special).—Seneca defeated Toccoa here in a very ordinary game. Walker, Toccoa's twirler, allowed five runs in the first inning. The Bobcats outplayed the Toccoa team all through the game.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Seneca..... 500 023 120—13 11 2 Toccoa..... 011 000 200—4 7 4 Batteries: Seneca, Williamson and Patterson and Carver; Toccoa, Walker and Gross.

Heinie Groh has fitted into the T-10 infield in good shape. The former Giant is getting his hits and playing a whole of a game at third. He is doing the lead-off trick.

Many Big Changes Take Place in Majors

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Baseball sales, releases, rumors of impending trades and balking players gave a tinge of variety to today's baseball news.

KING OF SWAT OWES DETROIT LOT FOR HITS

New York, June 9.—(AP)—George Herman Ruth, called Babe by his admirers, may well thank Ty Cobb and the Detroit Tigers for being a part of the American league.

Five years ago, just about this time, hammering Herman made known to the baseball world that he was aiming all shots at the far fences that a new home run record might be established. There were skeptics but most of them were converted after that first series in Detroit.

On June 11, he found Middleton for a four-base blow and the next day he straightened out a Sutherland offering. But the great burst of speed was to come. Howard Ehmke, then a Tiger of renown, did mound duty for Cobb on June 13 and suffered two home run knocks at the hands of the new champion, and the same fate befell George Daus the next afternoon.

Yesterday Ruth once again opened up on the Detroit hurlers, for this year he seeks another record and the two homers he tore from the service of Stoner and Holloway placed him six days ahead of his 1921 effort. In the season that he registered 59 circuit punches, Ruth had seven "doubles" days, four of them on western fields. His record of two homers in one day for 1921 follows:

June 13—Off Ehmke, Tigers, at Detroit. June 14—Off Daus, Tigers, at Detroit. July 2—Off Russell and Myers, Red Sox, at New York. July 12—Off Brown, Browns, at St. Louis.

August 8—Off Weinecke and Kerr, White Sox, at New York. August 23—Off Caldwell, Indians, at Cleveland. September 20—Off Coveleskie and Uhle, Indians, at New York.

Golf Championship Trophy Is Stolen

Chicago, June 9.—(AP)—Somewhere is a cup that cheers, but it is stolen property now. MacDonald Smith, who won the western open golf championship yesterday wired the western association that the cup had been stolen from the clubhouse at Lakeview, N. Y.

Smith, who won the cup at Youngstown last year, said it became known that the western association and Smith to June each carried insurance on the trophy. The loss is the second of its kind, a previous cup being destroyed in a fire.

In all the other field events—the shot put, the discus, javelin and hammer throws, and the high jump—will be competitors who have flitted consistently with world records.

John Kuck, of Kansas Teachers, and Houser, of Southern California, are deemed capable of a new shot put record.

Houser, already world discus throwing champion, will defend his title against Kuck, Hoffman, Taylor of Texas, Richardson of Missouri, and Doyle of Michigan.

Kuck, who lately threw the javelin 214 feet 2 1/4 inches, about three feet short of the world record held by Myra of Finland, will try to better that distance.

Hawkins, of Michigan, leads the hammer throwers who will compete here, having won at the Penn relays and the Western conference meet. Even the Hoff and Hubbard records will not be waived by the colleges.

Walker-Dundee Bout Postponed

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The Mickey Walker-Joe Dundee welterweight fight, scheduled for June 11 at Madison Square Garden, was indefinitely postponed today because of an injury to one of Walker's hands.

Mrs. Stetson Wins Women's Golf Title

Philadelphia, June 9.—(AP)—Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, Huntington Valley club, Philadelphia, was crowned champion of the eastern women golfers at the Philadelphia club today with a score of 233 for the 54 holes of the tournament.

Three Rome Stars Enter State Meet

Rome, Ga., June 9.—(Special).—Blanford Eubanks, William Davis, Paul Grimm and Kerner Primm, accompanied by Professor B. F. Quigg, left this afternoon for Athens, where they will represent the seventh district in the state track meet to be held there.

Eubanks, star athlete, will represent this district in hurdles, high jump and relay. Davis, Primm and Grimm will be members of the relay team.

Bill Mehlhorn Tied For Lead in Tourney; Play Finals Today

American Professional Shoots Total of 146 To Tie With George Gadd and James Adwiche—Jim Barnes Turns in Score of 148.

Liverpool, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Led by Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, the American contingent in the British northern professional championship passed safely through the second round of 18 holes today to qualify for the final 36-hole test tomorrow.

Adding a 75 to his 71 of yesterday, Mehlhorn completed the first and qualifying half of the 72-hole event with a score of 146, to share first place with George Gadd, of Roehampton, and James Adwiche, of Olton.

Jim Barnes, American holder of the British open title, was second to Mehlhorn among the Americans with 148, to tie four British players for fifth place. C. A. Whitcombe, British, had 147. Of 150 starters, 114 qualified, including all the Americans. All those with scores more than 21 strokes higher than the leaders were dropped.

Scores of the American players follow:

Bill Mehlhorn	71-75-146
Jim Barnes	75-73-148
Emmett French	80-71-151
Joe Kirkwood	76-75-151
Erill Walker	74-77-151
Tommy Armour	74-78-152
Walter Hagen	82-74-156
Al Watrous	76-82-158
Joe Stein	82-77-159

Hagen took one over five for the first four holes today, then did 14 holes in three under four.

LOCAL AUTO DEALERS IN TOURNAMENT

Close to 25 trophies await golfing members of the Atlanta Automobile association at the annual summer outing of the organization set for this afternoon at the Brookhaven Country club. Medal play, with handicaps prevailing, will be the basis upon which awards are made.

The Constitution is again offering a cup for the low net score; the Journal will give the low gross score, and the Latham-Atkinson cup will go to the team turning in the lowest net score. These cups must be won three times before becoming permanent property of the winners.

Play will be started at 12:30 o'clock according to Frank Spratt, chairman of the golf committee. Many other events will be held following the tournament and a great crowd is expected to attend.

Following are the pairings: Bob Wright and Valentine will play with Purser Turner and H. M. Calnes; A. O. Mitchell and O. E. Pruitt will play with T. A. Rippey and F. L. Ladd; C. W. Temple and Milton Hall will play with F. Blount and T. Miles; T. F. Gary and T. O. Poole, Jr., will play with Harry Cohen and Ernest Calloway.

DUFFY LEWIS RESIGNS POST WITH MOBILE

Mobile, Ala., June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Led by Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, the American contingent in the British northern professional championship passed safely through the second round of 18 holes today to qualify for the final 36-hole test tomorrow.

Adding a 75 to his 71 of yesterday, Mehlhorn completed the first and qualifying half of the 72-hole event with a score of 146, to share first place with George Gadd, of Roehampton, and James Adwiche, of Olton.

Jim Barnes, American holder of the British open title, was second to Mehlhorn among the Americans with 148, to tie four British players for fifth place. C. A. Whitcombe, British, had 147. Of 150 starters, 114 qualified, including all the Americans. All those with scores more than 21 strokes higher than the leaders were dropped.

Scores of the American players follow:

Bill Mehlhorn	71-75-146
Jim Barnes	75-73-148
Emmett French	80-71-151

Hagen took one over five for the first four holes today, then did 14 holes in three under four.

LOCAL AUTO DEALERS IN TOURNAMENT

Close to 25 trophies await golfing members of the Atlanta Automobile association at the annual summer outing of the organization set for this afternoon at the Brookhaven Country club. Medal play, with handicaps prevailing, will be the basis upon which awards are made.

The Constitution is again offering a cup for the low net score; the Journal will give the low gross score, and the Latham-Atkinson cup will go to the team turning in the lowest net score. These cups must be won three times before becoming permanent property of the winners.

Play will be started at 12:30 o'clock according to Frank Spratt, chairman of the golf committee. Many other events will be held following the tournament and a great crowd is expected to attend.

Following are the pairings: Bob Wright and Valentine will play with Purser Turner and H. M. Calnes; A. O. Mitchell and O. E. Pruitt will play with T. A. Rippey and F. L. Ladd; C. W. Temple and Milton Hall will play with F. Blount and T. Miles; T. F. Gary and T. O. Poole, Jr., will play with Harry Cohen and Ernest Calloway.

Manning J. Siegel and Ed. Morris will play with A. T. Akers and H. D. Stevens; A. B. Butt and Ed. H. Hess will play with W. H. Barker and Roy Clement; Nat Love and Con Baker will play with W. W. Meeks and Bill Rooker; L. H. McCreary and Nolan Tupper will play with F. J. Merriam and J. B. White; C. M. L. Rouse and D. C. Black will play with Kirk Hancock and Frank Spratt; L. W. Grande and D. ## Spurt in 3rd Frame Overcomes Big Lead Of Nashville Clan

Atlanta Scores Four Runs in Third Inning To Take Final Game of Series—Vols Get Early Lead But Are Checked.

Nashville, Tenn., June 9.—(Special.)—Ernie Osborne and Jimmie Hamilton elected to pitch to Uncle Wilbur Good, the man who has the hitting habit inculcated in his makeup, and Uncle Wilbur elected to end a ball game then and there in favor of the Crackers by a 4-3 count today.

In fact, Uncle Wilbur's election was a complete landslide of votes with the opposition conceding defeat even before the third inning was completed. Uncle Wilbur's vote against Osborne was a homer over the wall with two mates aboard to make the run total four in the third frame.

The Vols did all of their scoring in the first inning when three runs were pushed across. The Crackers did their damage in the third when four came in—and thus ended the combat. Out of that one pitched ball that Uncle Wilbur turned into a home run, the game was a beautiful pitcher's battle between Osborne and Fug Cavet and then Tom Rogers.

Inability to drop a sacrifice bunt cost the Vols their scoring chances on more than one occasion. In the eighth the Vols routed Cavet, but failed to take their scoring chance. Since Sikes' bunt was too heavily tapped, Kenna hit for McGraw and walked and Sikes forced him at second on an attempted sacrifice. Allen batted for Camp and doubled left. Mackey hit to Gilbert and Sikes was nailed at the plate and Redfern lofted to Haas to end the rally.

Similar failure to sacrifice cost the Crackers the seven tallies in the first and third as has been related previously. Men were aboard the bases both on Cavet and Osborne from time to time but few found their way to scoring territory except in the rather overloaded inning.

Cave Starts Rally. Neitzke walked to open the battle and Niehoff gloriously booted Partridge's tap and Neitzke raced to third when Bert heaved past Durocher. Bates' single to center to score Ernie and both runners advanced on Sikes' out at first. Camp then singled into right to send both home and end the day's scoring for the Crackers.

Rug Cavet opened the third for the Crackers with a single to center and with the count 2-0, Durocher misjudged a lucky little pop into right for a single, sending Pug to second. Niehoff crossed the Vols by doubling to right to score Cavet. Haas rolled to Osborne and Johnson

Sacred Concerts Announced For Sundays at Sunny Brook

Providing a new Sabbath attraction for Atlanta, a popular band has been engaged to furnish a concert every Sunday afternoon during the month of June at Sunny Brook park in Garden Hills. It was announced Wednesday by the Garden Hills corporation. The event will begin at 4 o'clock and continue for two hours. Comprising numbers selected for suitability to a Sabbath concert, the program is expected to draw a large audience. An invitation of the general public has been extended. Seats facilities are being provided for a large throng. Sunny Brook park will prove an ideal setting for such an occasion. The attractive recreational park is wooded with oaks and beech trees and smaller shrubs, including laurel and rhododendron, and a crystal brook which traverses it is banked with ferns and other luxuriant foliage.

Conceded one of the most completely equipped children's parks in the south, Sunny Brook park has been the mecca of many sightseers. Rustic bridges and summer houses, benches and bird houses and a menagerie of pets, including rabbits, guinea pigs, pigeons and ducks, all combine to make the place one of the most attractive spots in this section. Interrupting the flow of clear spring water are a series of wading pools for children. Other features to delight childish hearts are swings, riding devices and playground equipment of every type.

SPANISH WAR DAYS IN GEORGIA RECALLED

Washington, June 9.—(Special).—Long-forgotten incidents of the Spanish-American war in Georgia are recalled in a bill introduced by Senator Harris, which has been reported favorably from the claims committee and now has a place on the legislative calendar.

The bill authorizes the payment to Mrs. Brewster Agee, now a resident of Cedartown, of $5,000 for the death of her husband, who was wounded soon after the Spanish-American war in exchange of shots between citizens of Griffin and returning negro troops on a train which was passing through the town. Agee was a flagman on the Central of Georgia railroad.

The negro troops, returning from Cuba on two trains, the Central of Georgia railroad, were shooting indiscriminately as they passed northward through the state. One of the trains had gone through Griffin, spreading terror. The citizens, hearing that the other was on the way, determined to prepare for it, and gathered at the station as the troop train came through the town, armed with shotguns.

Shots were exchanged, and in the exchange Agee was struck. He was not killed, but died three years later as a result of his wounds. The damages of $5,000 will go to his widow if congress passes the bill of Senator Harris.

Lower Postal Rates on Farm Products Favored

Washington, June 9.—(Special).—The senate passed today a bill by Senator Harris, of Georgia, which will provide a short cut in the marketing of agricultural products and tend to eliminate the middle man in some cases.

The measure permits the sending of agricultural products for delivery at the postoffice from which the rural route on which the producing farm or orchard is located at one-half the regular rate otherwise applicable for service on that route.

This service is to be made in the nature of an experiment, since it is provided in the bill that it shall be limited to the period ending June 30, 1929, unless otherwise provided by law. The postmaster general is authorized to make regulations for the service.

The postoffice committee, which considered the bill, eliminated a provision allowing rural carriers a commission, fixed by the postmaster general on the postage received for the service in addition to the regular salary.

The bill now goes to the house, where action will be sought.

EVENING BREEZES LOWER MERCURY LATE WEDNESDAY

While the mercury in Atlanta climbed Wednesday for the second time this season to 92 degrees, heavy clouds and a slight rainfall in the afternoon brought relief from the oppressive heat which has gripped the city for the past two days. Temperatures went below 70 degrees Wednesday night. Despite the drop in the mercury over Wednesday night, C. F. von Hermann, local meteorologist, predicted that today will be "fair and just as warm." While rains are predicted for the northern and central portions of the state by the Washington bureau, Mr. von Hermann said that he did not believe there would be any precipitation in Atlanta today.

The mercury began its climb Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock with 76 degrees, reaching 92 degrees by noon. Clouds began to gather in the early afternoon, releasing a refreshing rainfall about 5 o'clock, accompanied by stiff breezes.

The high mark for this summer is 92 degrees and was reached for the first time May 27. While the mercury has lingered around 90 degrees since that time, it did not attain the 92-degree mark again until Wednesday.

GEORGIA EAGLES SELECT ATLANTA FOR 1927 MEET

Macon, Ga., June 9.—(P)—Atlanta was chosen as the next convention city for the Georgia Aerie, fraternal order of Eagles, at the final business session at the Eagles' hall on First street today.

Due to the fact that the state order is yet in its infancy as to years, the entire slate of officers were re-elected to serve for another year. Being familiar with the work it was decided that they could best serve the organization for another year.

The officers are J. J. Horvath, Savannah, president; W. T. Stotesbury, Macon, vice president; W. H. Kline, Atlanta, treasurer; W. A. Alexander, Savannah, secretary; S. H. Elliott, Augusta, chaplain, and Isaac Victor, Savannah, conductor.

Floyd Had Lowest Death Rate in May, Health Officer Says

Rome, Ga., June 9.—(Special).—Floyd county's death rate for May was the lowest in the state, according to the announcement today of Dr. R. V. Elmore, county health officer.

The Floyd rate for May was 10.5 per thousand inhabitants against 13.2 for the same month last year. There were 28 births and 37 deaths here last month.

Cobb Leaves Hotel. J. G. Cobb, formerly of Canton, has leased the Armstrong hotel from R. C. Gregory for a term of years. Mr. Cobb has been traveling around the country for several years and has decided to settle here.

W. L. Graves Buried. Funeral services for W. L. Graves, who died Sunday after an illness of three hours were held today at the home in East Home. The Rev. E. R. Layburn, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated and interment was in Myrtle Hill cemetery. Pallbearers were H. F. Meiklem, F. S. Cochran, Joe Glover, James Chisley and John H. Graham.

GRANT IS KNIGHTED BY DANISH KINGDOM

The Memphis Commercial Appeal contains the following reference to Daniel B. Grant, whose father the late Dan Grant was a native of Atlanta, living here to manhood, later located in Memphis, where he married Miss Pearl Neely, of that city. Daniel B. Grant, son of Mrs. Daniel Grant, of Memphis, and a prominent young bank executive of New York city who recently was put in charge of his company's affairs in London, has just been conferred the knighthood of Danneborg by the king of Denmark.

"The honor came to Mr. Grant in recognition of his services to the kingdom of Denmark in arranging its loans and the resultant effect upon

Danish exchange. The ceremony of knighting was performed by the Danish ambassador at London on May 28. "The Order of Chevalier de Danneborg was created in the twelfth century and is recognized as the highest decoration which Denmark can bestow upon any foreigner."

Mr. Grant, who has been thus honored by Denmark and who is making a remarkable headway in the business world of London, is a nephew of Peter Grant, an old Atlanta boy now living in Memphis, and a cousin of John W. Grant, of this city.

HAASE HONORED BY REFLECTION TO TWO OFFICES

Lewis Haase, manager of the new Erlanger theater now being erected at Peachtree and Linden streets, and for years manager of the Atlanta theater here, received word Wednesday that he had been elected vice president for Atlanta and the south of the Theatrical Press Representatives America, Inc. The reelection occurred at the annual meeting of the organization held in New York this week. The term of office is for one year, dating from the next regular meeting to be held Friday.

Mr. Haase also was advised this week that he was remained region director for the south of the International Theater Managers' association, Inc. at the annual meeting recently held in New York.

Lovely! not a Pimple

"Oh, what a beautiful skin! Not a pimple—not a blemish. Perfectly rounded shoulders and a Venus-like back! No wonder she's popular."

"If I could only get rid of these ugly pimples, my skin would be clear and soft and dimpling, like hers—maybe people would call me lovely, too."

"You're right! The only thing that mars your beauty are those unsightly skin blemishes. Clear them away and watch eyes full of admiration turn in your direction, wherever you go. 'But how can I get rid of them?' you ask. What will drive the wretched things away so they won't come back? Why, that's just exactly what S. S. S. helps Nature do. It's been clearing away pimples, blackheads and blotches for a century. S. S. S. helps Nature build up the blood to where it's pure and healthy—then

Capital City Club Roof Garden Will Open Thursday Evening

Society is particularly interested today in the formal summer opening of the Capital City club roof garden which will take place this evening at 8:30 o'clock. The event which is always anticipated with great pleasure by the club members as one of the outstanding social affairs of the season will be marked by an elaborate dinner-dance which will assemble several hundred prominent Atlantans. The roof garden, always a popular rendezvous for members of society remaining in town during the hot months, has recently been redecorated in preparation for the opening. The border of flower boxes will furnish a wealth of bloom and fragrance and form a charming background for the airy, summer towns of the ladies present. The woodwork and furnishings, painted in soft shade of green, will harmonize with the shaded lights and Japanese lanterns festooned above the dancing floor.

The dinner-dance will inaugurate the summer program of entertaining planned by this hospitable club, which will include dinner-dances on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week and a concert-dinner on the roof garden from 7 to 9 o'clock every Sunday evening.

Honor Guests Today.
Brides-elect and visitors form inspiration for other social affairs taking place today. Miss Alice Hand, of Pelham, is receiving much social attention as the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. P. Hinnman. Misses Elizabeth Branch, Janie Howard, Lucy Pairo, Josephine Davis, Marie Porter, Gladys Lane, Sarah Wimberly, Fionnie Landers and Mary Sue Gibson are among the attractive brides-elect who will honor guests at parties making up the day's calendar of events.
A wedding of interest scheduled for today will be that of Miss Louise Clark to Elmer Bassford Hull, which will take place at 1:30 o'clock this evening at the St. Paul Methodist church.

Woman's Union Bible Club To Meet Today.

The Woman's Union Bible club, meeting regularly on Thursday at 10 o'clock at Wesley Memorial church, extends a cordial invitation to women and girls of all denominations. This club, taught by Mrs. T. R. Kindall, is a center of spiritual inspiration and study of the Bible by books. Theospel of St. Luke is now under study.

Miss Callie Irwin To Preside At Mrs. Felton's Birthday Party

Some twenty-six years ago a young girl in her teens came up from Conway to make her shining mark in Atlanta's business world. Thursday at 12:30 o'clock, Miss Callie Irwin, subject of this article, who is blessed with the same enthusiasm of her youth, will preside at the 91st birthday party given Mrs. William H. Felton by the Georgia Insurance company, in which this distinguished United States woman senator is one of the oldest policy holders, while the toastmistress is director of the woman's department of the insurance company of which J. Henry Lynch is president.

"Smiling Lady."
Miss Irwin, known as the "smiling lady," is an excellent reader of human nature, who makes a point of remembering faces, names, occupations and possibilities of every person she meets. Women have a special appeal for her and she is never happier than when smoothing out some perplexing problem for a member of her own sex, for there are no problems too weighty for this sincere, earnest Georgian, who has made it a life work to cross her own bridges and lead others by the hand.

In 1900, when Miss Irwin appeared at the Capital City, she answered to an advertisement from George H. Fausa, president and owner, she was selected out of twenty-five or thirty other girls to fill the position. From that day forward and for 26 years she became "general flunkie," as she styled herself in this interest.

Miss Means Weds Joseph C. O'Neal.

Mrs. Ava Means, of Macon, Ga., announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Gibson, to Joseph Clayton O'Neal, on June 5.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Dance.

Arrangements for the Junior Chamber of Commerce dance and picnic at Lakewood amusement park Thursday evening, June 10, will be completed at the regular weekly luncheon meeting at the chamber of commerce this afternoon.

Members of the organization are to be hosts to their friends at the entertainment to give a rousing send-off to the delegation which will attend the national convention in Jacksonville the following week and the "On to Jacksonville" committee.

The dancing casino, which is open to the public nightly, will be closed to all except members of the junior chamber and their guests for the evening. Picnic suppers will be spread under the trees of the Sylvan terrace at 6:30 o'clock, followed by an excursion through the midway before the dance begins at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Brown, of Miami, Honored at Party.

A lovely affair of Wednesday was the bridge party at which Miss Lucille Wells and Miss Frances Vail were joint hostesses in honor of Mrs. Charles Brown, of Miami, Fla. Mrs. Julius Wells and Mrs. Eloise Brown assisted in entertaining. The guests included Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Henry McGehee, Mrs. Ernest Ranspess, Mrs. Stanley Strickland, Mrs. Frank Starnback, Mrs. William Lake, Mrs. L. J. Magill, Mrs. Caraway Aycock, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. Guy Ayer, Mrs. C. M. Stoddard, Mrs. Lewis Johnson, Mrs. Richard Snow, Mrs. A. J. Roohan, Mrs. William Bedell, of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. James Landauer, of New York; Mrs. John McKinley, of Detroit; Mrs. James Speas, and Mrs. Alfred Scott, of Athens.

Joint Hostesses At Bridge-Tea.

Mrs. H. G. Hastings and Mrs. Stanley Hastings were joint hostesses at a lovely bridge-tee on Wednesday afternoon at the Deatur Woman's club.

Blue larkspur and pink gladioli decorated the clubhouse.
Mrs. A. H. McDaniel, Mrs. B. H. Nowell and Mrs. Donald Hastings assisted in entertaining. Eighteen tables of bridge were entertained and 25 other friends called for tea.

Mrs. Jones Hostess To War Mothers.

Mrs. Sam D. Jones, perpetual president of the War Mothers Association of America, entertained 25 members of the state executive board at luncheon at the Atlanta Woman's club, Wednesday, June 9th, after their meeting in the club rooms.

The club auditorium has been engaged for the entire month of June by various organizations, civic and philanthropic. Luncheons may be served any day in the week, upon a day's notice, and the efficient hostesses of the club are ready and willing at all times to prepare simple or elaborate menus for any number of guests who make reservations for tea, bridge and swimming parties, etc.

Mirror Employees Have Day's Outing.

More than 60 employees of the Mirror participated in the annual picnic and outing of this millinery establishment, held at Piedmont park Tuesday afternoon.
Swimming was among the day's favorite sports, followed by a tempting and varied luncheon was enjoyed.

Missionary Meeting At East Point.

The East Point Church Street Methodist Missionary society held the monthly meeting Monday afternoon, June 7, with the president, Mrs. W. D. Morgan, in the chair.

Quarterly reports from chairmen of circles and superintendent of social service were made.
The Lella Charon circle will furnish flowers for the church services during the month of June.

Chairmen of the Bennett Memorial fund are requested to have money in hand and make quarterly report of same on or before June 30.

Mrs. J. D. Campbell gave a sketch of the work in Cuba. Mrs. W. H. Caldwell gave a sketch of the work in Korea and Mrs. J. T. McGee told of requirements of missionaries and teachers in training.

The society will sponsor a barbecue on Saturday, July 3, the proceeds to be applied on the indebtedness of the church property.

The devotionals was led by the president and the subject was "Building on Christ or Perishable Things?" The circles will hold their monthly meetings on Monday afternoon, June 14, at 3 o'clock.

Christian Endeavor To Honor Members.
The Christian Endeavor society of the Peachtree Christian church will entertain the members at a swimming party, Friday evening, June 11, at Avondale Estates. Chaperones for the occasion will be Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Dobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Craighead and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bayler.

Miss Bethea Weds William Powell Edens At Home Ceremony

A marriage of wide interest was that of Miss Margaret Janet Bethea and William Powell Edens, which was solemnized at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, June 5, at the home of Rev. H. T. Brookshire on Park avenue.

The bride, who is a charming young woman, was lovely in a white tulle gown trimmed in silver lace and seed pearls, with bandeau of silver and pearls. Her corsage bouquet was of white sweet peas and valley lilies. Miss Annie Mae Eubank and Miss Elizabeth Etheridge were bridesmaids. Miss Eubank was gowned in gray georgette combined with robin's egg blue and Miss Etheridge wore a dainty frock of green georgette, hand painted.

Loren Tunlin was best man and Byron Wells acted as groomsmen.

The wedding party was entertained at a beautifully appointed dinner by Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Edens at 508 Bryan street.

Miss Paulin Gives Tea for Miss Hana.

Miss Caroline Paulin was hostess at her home in Andrews drive at a seated tea complimenting Miss Alice Hand, of Pelham, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Hinnman, on Fifteenth street.

The guests included Misses Sarah Adair, Julia Meador, Laura Hoke, Boots Walker, Cornelia Orme, Palmer Dallis, Catherine Norcross, Mimi O'Brien, Helen Howard, Louise Moore, Jacquelin Moore, Eleanor Johnson and Margaret Arnold.

Miss Cheshire Weds Mr. Wheeler At Ceremony in Tampa

Interest centers in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Ivah Marlette Cheshire and E. Reynolds Wheeler, which took place Thursday evening, June 3, at 10 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh, 307 West Fifth avenue, in Tampa, Fla., the Rev. John T. Myers, of the Hyde Park Methodist church, performing the impressive ring ceremony.

The house was attractively decorated with pink and white roses and quantities of fern. The improvised altar was banked with palms and fern, with large baskets of pink roses placed on either side. Six tall pink candles cast a soft glow on the wedding party.

Miss Madeleine Albright sang "Love You Truly" and "At Dawning," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Tom Whitaker. Mrs. Whitaker also played the wedding march by Mendelssohn for the entrance of the bride.

The bride was gowned in white georgette trimmed with white tulle, over a satin slip, and she carried a bride's bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John Marsh, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and wore a pink georgette dress with flounces, trimmed with Irish lace. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. Pink and white brick ice cream and individual cakes were served to the guests.

Mrs. Wheeler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley A. Cheshire, of 307 West Curtis avenue. She is formerly from Trenton, Mo., but has lived in Tampa for the last several years.

Mr. Wheeler is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wheeler, of Atlanta, and has lived in this city practically all of his life. He has been in Tampa, Fla., for several months and is connected with the Marsh & Wheeler market of that city.

Camp Fire Girls Camp To Open at Sweetwater

The Camp Fire Girls' camp will open at Sweetwater camp June 21 to July 19, inclusive, through courtesy of J. B. McCrory, owner of Camp Sweetwater, which is 18 miles from Atlanta.

Miss Louise Holland is camp director, and an executor in the Camp Fire organization. Reports of last year's camp, which was held at Lake Bennett, Ga., were graded A-1 at the national headquarters. A staff of 10 trained counselors will accompany the girls and there will be the additional advantages of a trained nurse with first-aid equipment, roomy huts, dining hall and an open-air pavilion, where the girls will hold their weekly council fires and stunts. There will be time for study, for rest, and the more delightful pastimes of taking trips, overnight hikes, and sleeping on the porches.

The seven crafts of Camp Fire will be featured. Heart craft, health craft, hand craft, citizenship, camp, nature and business craft will be taught by specially trained instructors.

Miss Helen Haggard, in charge of the handicraft, will include basketry, painting, wood carving, and pottery in the course. Assisting her will be Miss Isabel Spring, who has had two years' experience in the camp of Mrs. L. Gulich, founder of the Camp Fire work, which is located at Camp South Casco, Maine.

Miss Ivy L. Hixson, of the University of Georgia, who has passed all life-saving tests, and is recognized as an outstanding woman swimmer, will have charge of the swimming. Two pools have been built, one for beginners and one for more advanced swimmers, and the lake has been dotted with canoes, rowboats, and other facilities for assuring the greatest possible sport during swimming periods.

A charge of $7.50 a week will be made for each girl. A dollar a week for registration, which will be taken out of the board later, will also be made. Guests are asked to visit the camp only on Sunday.

75 Atlanta Girls To Attend Camp. Anne Wynn Fleming and Jane Bayard, who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Holland, are heading a committee from troop 12 of the Atlanta Girl Scouts to collect books and photograph records for Camp Civitania. Practically the entire equipment is ready for the opening of the camp on Monday, June 14. Seventy-five Atlanta girls will go into uniforms of blue and gold for the summer season. Two new huts have been added to the five erected last year. The swimming pool has been scraped and cleaned. A crafts house for handicraft is being erected and an outdoor nature museum will be built by the girls themselves this summer.

Girls leaving Atlanta Monday morning will either go by bus or private automobile. Baggage may be sent parcel post to the owner, Camp Civitania, R. F. D. No. 2, Smyrna, Ga.

Persons wishing to donate books or photograph records are asked to phone headquarters, Chamber of Commerce building, Walnut 0040.

Opera Company Is Entertained At Candler Home

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler entertained the entire cast of the municipal light opera association at an al fresco supper and swimming party at their home on Briarcliff road Wednesday night.

The entire company, including the business office personnel, principals who are to appear in the eight weeks of summer opera which begin at the Atlanta theater on June 21, with a production of "The Chocolate Soldier," the directors, chorus and ballet were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Candler.

Included in the list of guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Parker and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Watson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Morton, Lewis Haase, Charles Berton, Maurice Bernhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Powers and daughter, Miss Louise Hunter and her mother, Miss Mary Lella Patterson, Miss Annie Yago, Louisa Templeman, Arthur Burekley, Francis Tyler, William McLeod, Leslie McLeod and the entire chorus and ballet of the company.

The only principal missing was Miss Vera Myers who, with her mother, is motoring through the country to Atlanta and is expected to reach the city about Friday, when she will immediately jump into the rehearsals. Miss Myers does not appear in the cast until the second week of the season.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined.

An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes. Use 'Mother's Friend' as our mothers and grandmothers did. Wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Broadfield Regulator Co., B. 44, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. 'Mother's Friend' is sold by all drug stores—everywhere."

Miss Sarah Ivins And H. G. Poole, Jr., Marry in Decatur

Miss Sarah Ernest Ivins, beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ivins, 105 Briarcliff road, was married to Harry G. Poole, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Poole, 40 Inman circle, Wednesday afternoon in Decatur.

Marriage of the couple came as a distinct surprise to their many friends in Atlanta and throughout the south, where both bride and groom are well known. Mrs. Poole was a popular member of the younger social set. She received her education at Washington seminary. Mr. Poole attended Princeton and is now associated with his father in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Poole will make their home in Atlanta.

A lovely affair honoring Miss Elizabeth Branch was the delightful bridge shower at which Mrs. Frank McCormack and her daughter, Miss Lillian McCormack, were joint hostesses at their home on Angier avenue. The guests included Misses Elizabeth Branch, Martha Branch, Virginia Branch, Rachel Farmer, Doris Thurmond, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Wright, Miss Josephine Harris, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. Lemon, Mrs. Hollingsworth, Misses Ruby, Nichols, Marguerite Gann, Mrs. Harline Branch and Mrs. J. Farmer.

On Tuesday evening, Miss Branch was complimented by Miss Jessie Hopkins at a lovely bridge party at her home in the Pershing Point apartments. The guests included Miss Branch's bridesmaids and a few other close friends.

Miss Josephine Harris was hostess on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Woodcrest avenue at a delightful miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Branch. The guests included only a few close friends of the hostess and honoree.

SHOULD HUSBANDS DO HOUSE WORK?

How Mrs. Dyer Solved the Problem.

Mrs. Mildred Dyer was lucky. She had a good-natured husband who helped her with much of her housework. Because she was in ill health for five years, it was often necessary for him to do this. But it bothered Mrs. Dyer. She felt that he had to work hard enough anyway.

The time he spent in doing her work was needed for his own. She determined to find the road to better health.

She writes: "I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply wonderful. My health is better than it has ever been. I am getting stronger and gaining in weight."

The Dyers live at Redlands, Calif., Route A, Box 183.

How often does your husband have to do your housework? No matter how willing he is, no woman feels comfortable about it. Perhaps you, too, will find better health through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Chief Justice Taft was reported today by the health specialist attending him to be "getting along nicely."

The physician said he was hopeful that the chief justice would be able to leave Washington Friday for his summer home in Canada, but added that at this time it was impossible to make a definite statement on the subject.

JAM AND JELLY MAKING MADE EASY AND SURE

Today it is no more necessary for you to make your jams and jellies by the old, long-bell method than it is for you to light your house with candles or spend the morning washing lamp chimneys.

The reason for the old-fashioned method of "boiling fruit down" was that no fruit contains enough jelling substance to jellify all of its juice. Therefore a large amount of juice had to be boiled away.

But now with Certo (the jelling substance of fruit refined and bottled) you can use any fruit you like—even one which has never jelled before—boil it only one or two minutes, and get a perfect tender "set."

This short boll with Certo saves all of your fruit and juice—its fresh flavor—its bright color—its bulk. You get half again more jam or jelly. It takes less time to make it and it tastes better, looks better and cannot fail to jell.

A recipe book comes with each bottle of Certo. Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Address: Douglas-Peterson Corporation, 1950 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y.—(adv.)

Burkhart Pleads Guilty in Trial For Osage Deaths

Pawhuska, Okla., June 9.—Choosing a dramatic moment when the capital of the Osage nation swarmed with the five civilized tribes of the west in annual pow-wow, Ernest Burkhart, a white man, confessed Wednesday that he participated in the "reign of terror" which sent 20 wealthy Osage Indians to their deaths in 1922.

Burkhart called a sudden halt in the proceedings of Judge Jess E. Worten's court, where he was on trial, and entered a plea of guilty to the murder of W. E. Smith, his Indian wife and a servant girl.

The triple murder, he said, was committed at the request of W. K. Hale, his uncle, who is known as "the Osage killer" and who has been named ring-leader of the plot to slaughter wealthy Osages for their headrights.

The unexpected turn in the trial involving the Osage "king" seemed to raise the veil of mystery for the first time from the sordid record of murders which followed the redskins' rise to wealth after prospectors struck oil on his land.

Hale already has been indicted by the federal government, but has not been brought to trial. He was a star witness for Burkhart.

Burkhart declared he planted and set off the charges of fraud which took three lives in the Smith household. His confession is believed to have clinched the government's case against Hale as previously only one man, a former convict, had turned state's evidence and prosecutors feared his testimony would not carry much weight.

Smith had married a wealthy Osage woman. He had made his will, naming Hale the chief beneficiary.

This, according to the state and federal prosecutors, was a part of Hale's plot. As one of the biggest land holders in the Osage hills, he gained the confidence of numerous Indians and "saw men." Many of them trusted him with their funds and business affairs.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

By IRENE CASTLE

Copyrighted 1926 by P. O. Beauty Features

Wash Face?—Yes But mind what sort of soap you use

Take care that you use only such soap as is made solely to protect the complexion, then always according to this simple rule.

FOREMOST skin authorities urge washing the face regularly as essential to natural complexion clearness. But all urge greatest care in selecting the kind of soap one uses.

Risking a precious complexion to an unproved soap is a folly. The only kind of soap to use on your face is a soap made solely to safeguard the complexion. Launder and cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, take care.

The accepted skin care of today starts largely with Palmolive, a soap made of rare cosmetic oils, a soap made for one purpose only—to be used freely and lavishly on the skin.

The rule in skin care Experts urge is this

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Get real Palmolive

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Democrats Hit Dry Law Stand Of Wadsworth

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Almost before it was 24 hours old, the pronouncement by Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment drew a reply from the New York democratic house delegation, whose members questioned the consistency of the senator's votes on the wet any dry issue.

Twenty-one members of the delegation joined in addressing a letter to the senator, assailing his position on the prohibition issue since its inception, while the other democrats from New York, Representative Jacobstein, of Rochester, issued a statement accusing the senator of "flirting with the wet voters of the democratic party" after having "been deserted by the dregs of his own party."

The letter, signed by the group of 21, charged Wadsworth with inconsistency. "You claim that many years ago you voted against the amendment," the letter said. "If you did that was your last wet day. Since then you have been as dry as a bone, just as dry as the Anti-Saloon league dictated, and isn't it a fact, senator, that it was not until that ecclesiastical-political klan cast you into the political discard by nominating Christians against you that you formally declared yourself on the all-absorbing question of the hour? In other words, you did not jump, you were fired."

you have held the fort for them against any attempt to honestly solve the prohibition question. Now when they forsake their child, he leaps onto the band wagon of modification.

"If you want to be 'wet,' why don't you join the only wet party in the state of New York—the democratic party?"

BEAVERS WILL BEGIN VACATION THIS WEEK

Chief of Police James L. Beavers will begin a 30-day leave of absence to recuperate his health the latter part of this week it became known Wednesday when Mayor Pro Tem Claude E. Buchanan, acting for Mayor Walter A. Sims, signed a leave of absence for 30 days in addition to the regular 20-day vacation period due the chief.

Chief Beavers will go from Atlanta to Minnesota, where he will visit his son, until the latter part of July, and then he will go to Chicago to attend the International Association of Police Chiefs.

SUTTON IS SPEAKER BEFORE ASSOCIATION

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, will deliver one of the 7-7 addresses at the 64th annual meeting of the National Education association to convene in Philadelphia, June 28, according to announcement of the program by Miss Mary MacSkimmon, president of the association.

Mr. Sutton will speak on "Children as Promoters of Community Programs." The convention will continue through July 2, but Mr. Sutton's address is scheduled for the opening day. He left Atlanta Wednesday night on a vacation trip to the east.

Doty's Splendid Record as Soldier Saves His Life

Paris, June 9.—(AP)—Bennett J. Doty, of Memphis, Tenn., who, fighting in the French foreign legion in Syria under the name of Gilbert Clare, is charged with desertion, is not likely to face a firing squad. He may have to serve a term of detention in a disciplinary camp. Reassuring news has been received from French headquarters at Damascus that Doty's previous excellent military record in the foreign legion probably will save him.

The matter is not yet in the hands of M. Painleve, the war minister, as the French authorities in Syria must await the result of the court-martial by which Doty will be tried before making their report to the war department in Paris.

The American consul at Damascus is looking after Doty's interests, and the American youth will be defended by a French officer, who is convinced that Doty is not as culpable as the charges specify. Damascus advisers say the French authorities there have been so stung by erroneous snap judgment reports sent out that they intend to move cautiously. One thing certain is that the court-martial board is not yet ready to try the case, and any definite action is hardly likely before the middle of June.

The French press is avoiding mention of the affair, letting military justice and diplomatic intervention take their course.

"You can tell American readers that all interests and rights of Doty will be safeguarded," an officer of the general staff told a correspondent for the Associated Press.

Those articles representing Doty as already sentenced summarily to be executed are inspired in bad faith. That is how we are depicted abroad and yet you wonder at our application for censorship. The French army in Syria, which is the only army in the entire world operating 1,785 miles from its base, insists on obtaining final authorization from the minister of war and the president of the republic at Paris before the execution of court-martial sentences.

FORMER ATLANTAN SERIOUSLY HURT AS CAR HITS TREE

Dublin, Ga., June 9.—(Special)—Ed Freeman, of the Dublin office of the state highway department, was seriously injured this afternoon, when he is said to have driven his car into a tree to avoid a collision with another automobile. The accident happened on the outskirts of Dublin.

Freeman, who formerly resided in Atlanta, was brought to the city in a comatose condition, suffering from an injury to the head, a fracture of the left thigh, and bruises and cuts.

DIXIE CHIROPODISTS NAME 1926 OFFICERS

Dallas, Tex., June 9.—(AP)—Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee were represented by officers elected today at the close of the first annual convention of the Southern Association of Chiropodists, a new organization seeking recognition of the national association.

Oklahoma City was chosen for the 1927 convention.

Dr. W. Lee Austin, Dallas, was named president; Dr. S. D. Tomlinson, Oklahoma City, vice president; Dr. H. M. Wellman, Hot Springs, Ark., second vice president; Dr. W. C. Loftin, Waco, secretary; and Dr.

A. Lobb, Memphis, treasurer. A petition asking the national body's recognition will be addressed by the southern association for the house of delegates at the August convention of the National Association of Chiropodists at Cleveland.

What is this tempting, teasing taste?

Nothing you ever ate before tasted exactly like it. You cannot quite describe it. It is a new good taste.

Children love it. Grown-ups too. Everybody seems to enjoy the tempting, teasing taste of Heinz Rice Flakes, the new Heinz food, rice, now made perfect.

And these crisp and tender

flakes are good for you. There's health in them—nourishment in them—strength in them—for big folks and little folks alike.

This new good food with its new good flavor is ready now. Your grocer has a package for you. Take it home and serve a treat for all the family.

HEINZ Rice Flakes

A NEW Flavor

57

ONLY HEINZ CAN DO IT—AND THIS IS WHY
In perfecting this new food Heinz spent years and years in scientific preparation. And Heinz has created an entirely new flavor—a flavor secured by a special process developed, owned and used exclusively by Heinz.

The Law of the Talon

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.
THE BATTLE BEGINS.

Alistair assumed at the breakfast table that his cousin had seen him, but he cared not a jot what Betty might think. His only concern was that Lord Oban should not have written to his son before he had been consulted. No matter what line John might have taken in the letter to his father which Eileen had spoken of, the abuse and threats showered on one who had never been known to do him an injury could not fail to influence the reply, provided it were really true that his lordship meant departing in that slight degree from the Spartan role of an unforgetting parent. In effect, Uncle Hector must peruse John's answer to Alistair at the first practicable moment.

The opportunity came sooner than Alistair himself expected. Lord Oban had not a hearty appetite that morning. He ate but little, and that slowly. Rising before the others, he asked his nephew to come to "the den" when at liberty.

Eileen lifted her head at that.

"May I come, too, uncle?" she said.

The request was a cartel, the veritable challenge. It sent a mild shock through the room, because the Lansings felt electricity in the air. But "uncle" only smiled. He was master of his emotions that morning.

"Everyone here, not excepting my wife, seems to forget that this sort of thing is beastly bad form."

"No," he said, kindly enough. "Later, if you wish, but I want a few words with Alistair first."

She left it at that. There was no sense in provoking a disagreeable scene, and she was convinced that for once in his life Alistair would not prevail against John.

The episode was quietly dramatic in its own way, but its interest did not compare with the tense situation caused by Brown's perfectly natural curiosity as to the name which Mr. Alistair Panton professed to have forgotten. Dropping the letters one by one into the box at Inverlochle postoffice he came on that intended for a Mr. Dorrington. Odd how Mr. Alistair had been mistaken.

"It's no Dorrington but Connington," said Douglas to himself. "Ferdinand Connington, Esq., care of the Secretary, Gamma-Delta Club, Dean street, Soho, Lunnun. Gosh, what an address! Connington? I mind no Conningtons! This pairt o' Inverness. Gamma-Delta? Noo, what's one tas mek o' words like they? An' it's marked 'Kindly forward,' as well. Happen this liddle 'Dorrington-Connington' is no there at a, but I some other outlandish place kent on'y by some Secretary. Anyhow, in ye gae!"

The singular fact about this quite simple incident was that Brown's not too greatly encumbered brain should be able to retain the complete superscription on the envelope for just so long a time as was absolutely necessary to render the information of utmost importance. If criminals made no mistakes seldom he caught. If wise persons like Alistair Panton did not occasionally underestimate the wisdom of others they would be invulnerable, whether their actions boded good or evil to their fellow men.

Alistair did not hurry over his breakfast. His philosophy of life was that of the Epicureans—that whatever we believe to affect us does affect us, and is therefore real, so error can only arise when mere supposition is confused with that which we actually feel. He felt quite unmistakably that something had gone wrong, and traced the hostile influence to Eileen's championship of that erratic letter writer, John Bridgforth Panton.

It was a puzzling situation. Where his family was concerned the heir to Inverlochle had written only two letters in seven years. One was an altogether priceless production from Alistair's point of view. What high explosive could the other contain to disrupt the home circle so thoroughly? Well, Lord Oban would explain. Meanwhile, a little psycho-analysis might be useful.

Disregarding the Lansings—in fact, treating them as fools—he selected Cousin Betty for the experiment. It was a daring effort, but Alistair thus far was a Panton who had never been charged with cowardice.

"I hate to mention such a word as 'court martial,' but I seem to be in for one," he said, smiling as though he were making a harmless joke about an utterly unimportant thing. "Have you been pitching some yarn to Uncle Hector about last night's goings on, Betty?"

"You mean about Eileen?"

"About my wife, yes."

"Betty said 'Eileen'—please be accurate."

Thus Eileen herself. Though she winced at the reference to a court martial she did not hesitate to hit back.

"If you people are going to hold a symposium, Mary and I will take a turn on the loch," put in Lansing good naturedly.

"Nothing of the sort, Reginald," drawled Lady Lansing. "Why spoil a perfectly delightful opening? The last word was yours, Eileen. 'Accurate,' I think it was. It seemed to imply a qualification. Bang up-to-date, I call it. Edna Best and Tallulah Bankhead specialize in that kind of talk."

"We're a long, long way from the last word yet," said Betty Bridgforth, meeting Alistair's mocking eyes with a bovine stare which would have warned him had he not discounted her stubbornness already. "I don't think any one here will say it. At any rate I haven't tried it on Uncle Hector. Since you sneaked upstairs after Eileen last night, Alistair, all I've said to him was 'Good morning,' and all he has said to me was 'G-r-r-r' or something like it in Gaelic."

"I recognize the sound. It means that the head of the clan is in a very bad temper. Perhaps you believe that the last word, or it may be the missing word, has reached him from some outside source?"

"That would be a good guess, but a very misleading description of Cousin John. You, I understand, heard from him yesterday. Why shouldn't he write also to his father?"

"He threatened to slay me at sight. You don't mean to tell me he offers to become a participant as well?"

"No. O, no! I have not seen either letter, but it is quite possible that if he promises you a warm time when you meet he wants to make sure of his ground first."

"Dear, dear! I seem to have been tried and convicted for some crime the nature of which has not been even suggested so far. Are you mixed up in this, Eileen?"

"Yes."

The hard, unflinching monosyllable flew across the table like a stone. It left Alistair unmoved, but before he could retort Sir Reginald's clenched fist, brought down heavily, rattled all the breakfast crockery.

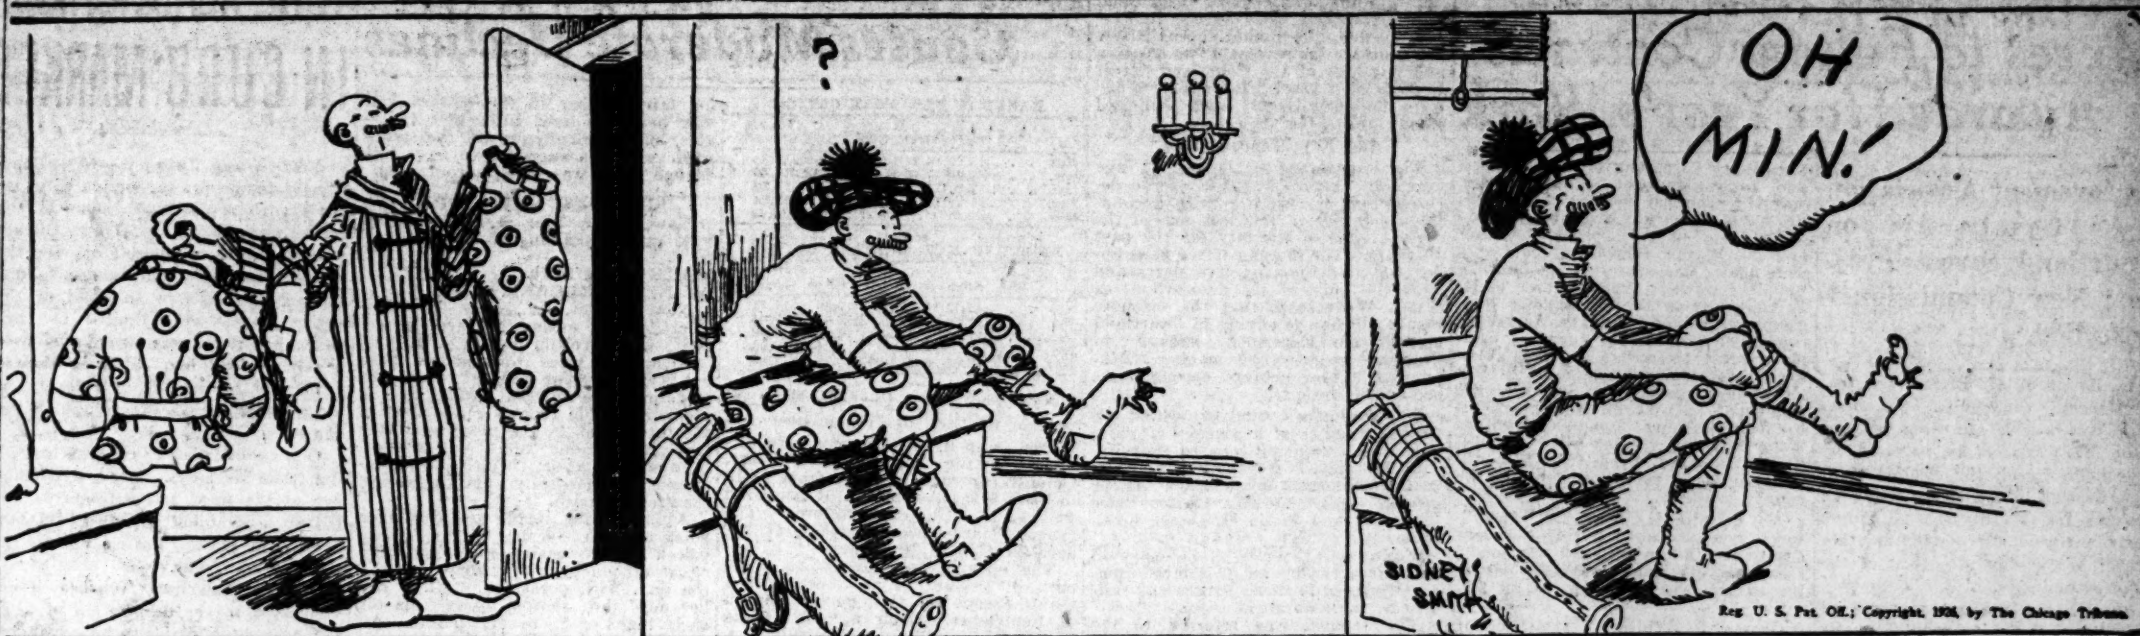

"Every one here, not excepting my wife, seems to forget that this sort of thing is beastly bad form," he cried angrily, thrusting back his chair and springing to his feet. "I'm off! Mary, you come, too, or I'll go a damn sight farther than Loch Inver!"

Mary Lansing rose. She sighed, but she knew to an inch the length of tether her husband would allow.

"Too bad!" she said. "These poor dears are going to have a lovely row. Get it over before lunch, will you? You girls can tell me all about it afterwards. But keep the spicy bits from Reginald. He simply hates domestic quarrels. I haven't seen him bank the table like that since young Bertie Fitz Gibbon sent me into fits one evening by the latest story from Paris. I do wish I could remember it now. It might save the situation."
